1.Question Everything Questions Are Answers!

-By Paul A. Philips

Questions are answers: There are 2 different approaches that can be used when confronting someone. The first type, the one that most people think what the word confront means, is "to bear fisticuffs." Meaning, this approach could be to fight with someone emotionally or physically...

The second approach however is quite different and far more empowering.

This is to confront by just simply "being there." Confronting by just being an observer:

Dealing with the circumstance while not being the effect of the person or situation you are confronted with. While calmly and analytically doing what needs to be done and saying what needs to be said...

-So, by using this second approach, when confronting someone in what could be described as controversial or debateable circumstances it indeed becomes a more effective and peaceful way to deal with the related situation.

iNewParadigm.com

© 2026

Consider, for example, when challenging someone on a subject. A good way of using this second approach when confronting and getting your truth across is to stick with the principle that questions are answers.

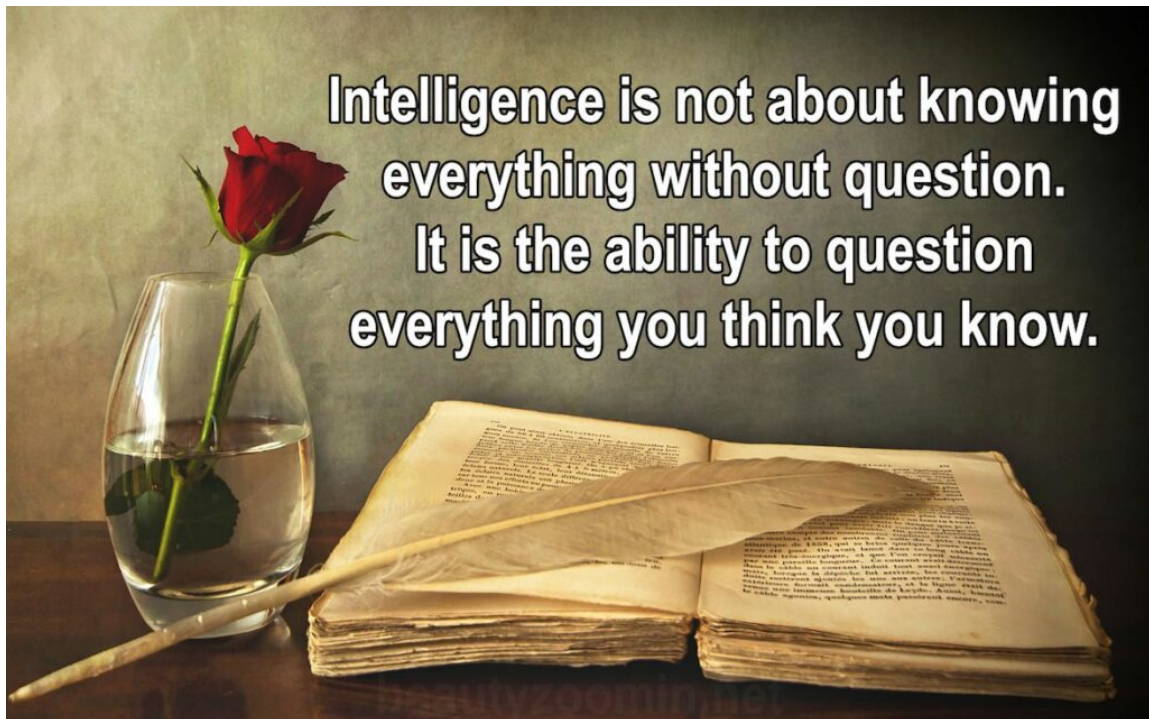

I'll explain:

When you put forward a bunch of questions to someone about a subject, instead of confronting you personally, they have to deal with the questions instead. You are no longer the subject for confrontation, instead, it's the questions you have given them which they are left to grapple with...

-Do you see?

Now, taking this principle that questions are answers, lets apply it in a different way.

Let's apply it as a way of inquiring into subjects in a truth-seeking, soul-searching manner.

iNewParadigm.com

Play Detective!

-Look for the errors, inconsistencies and so-called coincidences... while remembering to apply the principle: Question everything as "questions are answers!"

For example, take the case of the mainstream media.

Mainstream Media Lies – Reasons to Question What They're Telling You

The corporate-sponsored mainstream media frequently lies to us: The reasons for this are related to those hoary old chestnuts: For power, profits and/or political gains. Then there's the related coverups, biasedness and acts of omission...

Also, there's the suppression, oppression, running down, making ridicule of (based on no evidence), or attacking individuals or groups for simply exposing the hidden truth to which a number of individuals in high places would prefer covered up.

For most part, mainstream media reporting gives the impression that they are giving you the definitive report. Essentially, a narrative with all its events and circumstance that is not subject to questioning, as essentially, according to them, they have reported the truth.

-This alone should make anyone suspicious.

First of all, we live in a world where nothing is as it seems. In every aspect in our lives there has been a manipulation. -The mainstream media is no exception when it comes to well-crafted manipulation.

How is the mainstream media able to get away with it?

In this world, for many people, there is an epidemic of incuriousness: Sadly, way too many people in their ignorance, lack of curiosity, denial, cognitive dissonance, small-mindedness, blind unquestioning acceptance of authority figures go into agreement with the rest of the clueless sheep-like masses...

For going into agreement, they have potentially set themselves up for victimhood.

Thus, these people, who are in their victimhood, have been played, as they are unknowingly led further into a deep and dark abyss. There have been many online alternative media blogs/articles exposing this and the related deception. However, the majority still fall for it hook-line and sinker.

Naturally, having looked at these blogs/articles, further questioning is wholeheartedly encouraged. Get thought-provoking. Stay on the enquiry. Every subject is infinite: Every answer can return you to another question!

Those who cannot answer your questions are unable to do so because they don't have the truth on their side.

-Therefore, ultimately, these blogs/articles have been written either as a source of challenge, or enlightenment, or protection from victimhood: Protection from serious illness, death, winding up stony broke, or other related loss of freedoms with the application of their knowledge.

Using this principle: Questioning everything as questions are answers, I wholeheartedly encourage you to spread the word to others from what you have gleaned, so that they can also be enlightened or be able to protect themselves by taking the appropriate actions...

From the outcomes, from the practical applications through questioning everything as questions are answers a savvy person can make a complete turnaround: That turnaround is to go from victim to victor!

Now, this is where it comes together – The awakening process

Perhaps you could choose a subject area that interests you. Quite some years ago, my awakening process began, starting the same way as it starts out for many other people.

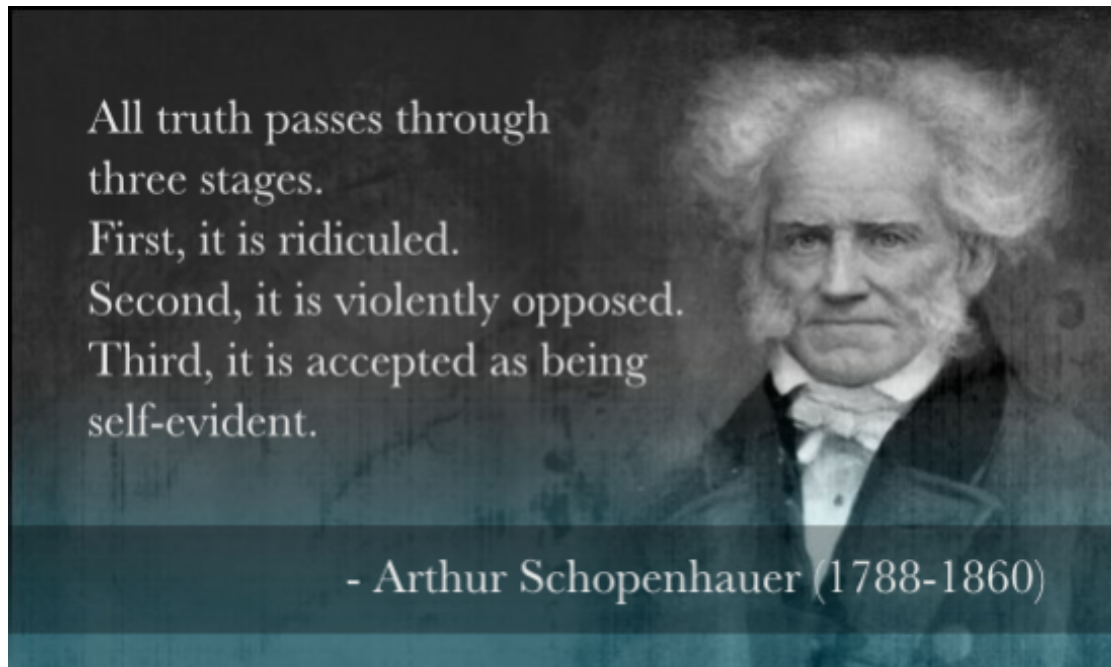

That is, I was drawn to and took an avid interest in a particular subject. That subject was health. I found that a number of mainstream media accounts over what was going on with all things health-related simply just didn't add up.

So, I started questioning the official narrative as to what was going on. I still and always will use the principle that questions are answers.

Where my questions had been unanswered it led me to conclude that the mainstream media and their related associates weren't telling the truth. I had uncovered a deception...

One thing then led to another and I found out that besides health many other subjects were a deception. As a consequence, I got active. I chose to spread the word on these deceptions with a view to protecting one's self. Not becoming a victim as a consequence of these deceptions, but a victor instead by taking precautions.

Just keep on keeping on with the truth.

Truth is the only way out of the tunnel we find ourselves in. We have to remove the sticky plaster from our mouths and start telling our truth and remember to use the insistent principle that questions are answers.

Stay curious!

-In much love, peace and light.

2.17 Questions to Challenge the Climate Change Crisis

-By Paul A. Philips

We are forever getting told of a forthcoming major climate change crisis. How we are destroying our planet by unwittingly contributing to potential catastrophic famines, flooding and heatwaves... through our negligence to climate change.

Many have challenged this climate change crisis claim: It has been said that the human-led climate change crisis is a monumental lie. A deceptive Deep State tool. A PSYOP used to control the sleeping masses to get their compliance as they blindly walk into an engineered dystopia under the guise of saving the world.

© 2026

-In reflection of this, here are 17 truth seeking questions to challenge the climate change crisis claim and its related implications that something desperately needs to be done to prevent the so-called predicted catastrophic events.

Q1. If climate change was for real then how is it that related disaster scenario predictions never came true?

-Here are some of those predictions.

*Starting with so-called climate change expert James Hansen. He said in 1988 the west side highway parallel to New York's Hudson River would be immersed in water in about 20-odd years. -You can see from Google images that this is still dry.

*The Independent newspaper (anything but independent!) made the failed prediction in 2000 that snow would be no longer.

*Another mainstream newspaper with its fanfare and fearmongering claimed in 2004 European cities would be disappearing as they would be submerged under rising sea levels by 2020.

Another so-called climate change guru Al Gore in 2006 in his documentary film "An Inconvenient Truth" claimed that:

*In ten years (2016 – post-documentary film 2006) there will be no Kilimanjaro snow. Yes, it's still there.

*Gore went on to say, come summer 2013, the North Pole may be ice-free.

*Through melting, ice sea levels could rise by 20 feet...

*A NASA scientist in 2008 predicted that Earth will be devoid of any ice.

*Then there's this Tweet from Greta Thunberg which she later removed:

Greta Thunberg ✓
@GretaThunberg

"A top climate scientist is warning that climate change will wipe out all of humanity unless we stop using fossil fuels over the next five years."

Climate Change Crisis - Alarmist Reports

Q2. Given that there have been quite a number of alarmist reports, stories over the years scaring us into believing that climate change is the culprit, but later these stories were proven to be untrue, as with the above false predictions, is this another case of using fake climate change as a World Economic Forum control tool for imposing dystopic change?

Here are a few examples of those untrue alarmist report stories.

*A report from the BBC told us that fast melting Antarctic ice was causing a dramatic reduction in ocean current speeds which "could have a disastrous effect on the climate." What they didn't tell you in this hidden agenda net-zero endorsing fairy tale scare-story was that NASA research had found the opposite of the claim. That the Antarctic ice was in actual fact in balance and not melting.

*There was a story going around in the mainstream media that polar bears were under the threat of extinction due to climate change. However, zoologist Susan Crockford did a demolition on this fake story telling us with her research that polar bears are in fact thriving.

© 2026

*Then there was the misleading Netflix film with David Attenborough's bogus claim that there were falling walruses due to lack of ice and climate change...

*As with untrue stories there have been numerous gross exaggerations regarding climate change to the point of fantasy.

This is done in a desperate attempt to persuade us that the claims are for real. Take for instance an IPCC (Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change) report telling us that

"Global Temperatures Are Highest for 125,000 Years."

This has no settled science, but since when has that ever bothered those receiving plentiful funding to go along with the narrative?

Concerns: Scientists have been urged to cover up the fact that the Earth's temperature hasn't risen for the last 15 years amid fears it would provide ammunition for deniers of man-made climate change

Q3. Following on isn't real science showing there is no climate change crisis or emergency getting ignored, censored or even demonized because it goes against globalist billionaire's political agendas for world Orwellian takeover?

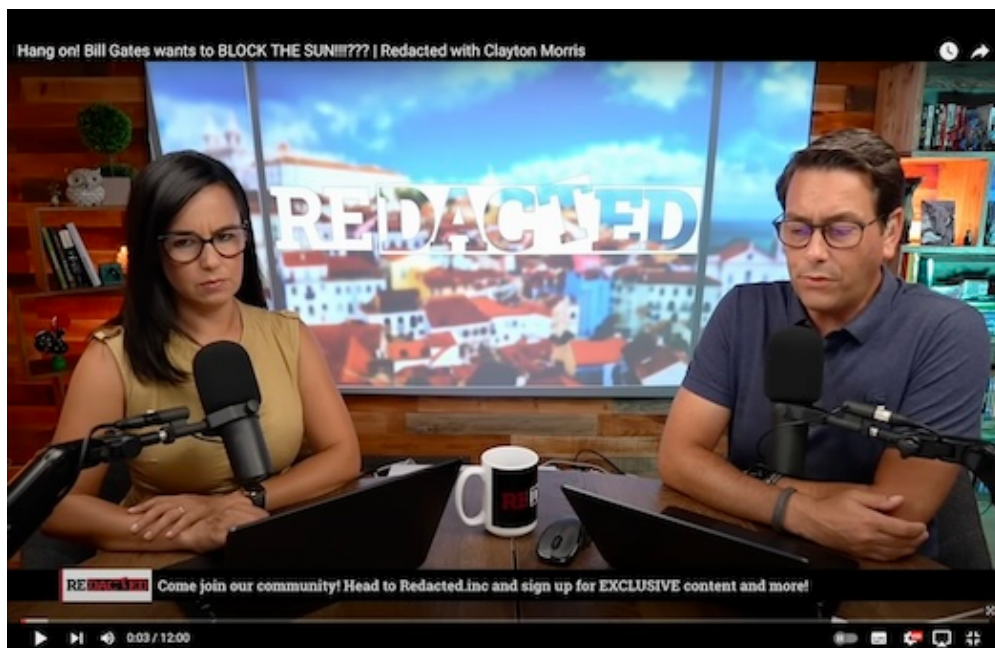

Q4. Doesn't the undemocratic acceptance of 15-minute, ludicrous net-zero carbon, "smart" cities... and its implications simply mean that you'd be agreeing with your own imprisonment?

Q5. On similar lines to the above what about the UK demands to close all airports by 2050 and what about other countries considering the underlying motive and implications?

Q6. Why demonize carbon (carbon dioxide) when it is a life-giving gas and ALL life depends on its cycle? Politically driven agendas such as the aimed for low CO2 levels will not be good for us. In effect, the UN target will lower the average temperature by 10 degrees centigrade.

Q7. As with other officialdom declared "crises," doesn't the handling do more harm than good?

Climate Change – Activists

Climate change activists destroying art

In recent times there have been growing concerns over the increasing numbers of climate change activists and their extremist behaviour. These activists are also gaining more public support while some are funded.

-In the knowledge of this here are some follow-on questions focussing on climate change activists and their activism.

Q8. While wanting to stop or block oil and gas projects, even in transition to alternative energy forms, wouldn't fossil fuel engines still be needed to take care of transporting essentials such as hospital and food needs...?

Q9. Further, where will all the alternative energy materials; wind turbines, steel, battery sources for electricity... come from without the use of fossil fuel driven operations?

Q10. In reflection of the above, isn't it clearly a case of activists shooting themselves in the foot wanting to stop or block oil and gas projects?

Q11. In relation to extinction rebellion activism, what about all the policing, criminal damage and disruption costs related to activism?

Q12. How do activists deal with contradictory evidence challenging climate change assertions?

Q13. What percentages of carbon dioxide and methane do you think is causing climate change?

Q14. How much of an effect on climate change do you think the following has: Changing solar patterns, grand solar minimum over tens or thousands of years in respect to the bigger picture...?

Q15. With respect to Q7, what about considering the ups and downs of climate change when fossil fuels did not exist?

Q16. What about the corporate owned and controlled MSM (mad stream media) reporting on all this, with their propaganda, lies, coverups and distortions of truth; instead of it being a case of 'settled science' isn't a more like 'settled funding,' telling the public anything their corporate lords and masters instruct them to report regardless of truth for a good price?

Q17. While activists get funded, who gains?

Climate change crisis – In Summary

Although the masses are waking up there still remains an 'epidemic of incuriousness.' The masses still continue to blindly accept authority and go into unquestioning agreement with the general consensus to which the Deep State and their associates rely on to advance their imprisoning agendas based on PSYOPS and false circumstances.

As the saying goes: Question everything. Break the spellbinding disinformation spun by the mainstream media...Many claim that it's never been about climate change. It's really about dystopic world takeover.

3. Was the Trump Assassination Attempt a Hoax? 28 Questions We Should All Ask!

-By Paul A. Philips

In order to investigate the so-called July 13, 2024, Trump assassination attempt during one of his political rallies near Butler, Pennsylvania, it needs to be looked at rationally and dispassionately. It needs to be investigated without prejudice. Without political bias, or other preconceived ideas that tarnish judgement, as there's plenty of that going in the mainstream media. So don't be misled! Don't take sides. You need to have some critical thinking.

-So here are the 28 questions asking was the Trump assassination attempt a hoax?

1. In the run up to the recent assassination attempt, why didn't the Secret Service do anything to eliminate the potential threat when informed by a number of people in the crowd sighting Thomas Crooks climbing onto and along the rooftop of an unsecured building?

2. As asked by trained snipers, such as ex-Canadian veteran Dallas Alexander: was Crooks, the said shooter, a lone wolf, or, aided by others suggesting a planned "inside job?"

3. Was the ladder at this building allowed to be there so that the shooter could climb up...?

4. Why weren't police officers already on this roof, knowing it was a vantage point for a shooting?

5. A police officer having "vaulted" onto the roof then came back down the ladder after Crooks had turned his gun on him. Then Crooks turned his gun on Trump. At no point did the armed counter-sniper watching this nearby immediately do anything about this. In fact, the counter-sniper waited 42secs allowing Trump to be shot at before returning fire back at Crooks. -Why the standdown behavior??

6. This one's hugely significant: Did the Secret Service agents move some people in the crowd around 10 seconds before the shots rang out to clear the line of fire on Trump? The related video footage looks suspicious.

7. Right after the shooting, the fact that Trump was allowed to make an unprotected by body guards fist-pump gesture, dangerously making him an open target to be fired at, a staged propagandized photo-opportunity?

8. Did you know that the photographer was Doug Mills the same guy who photographed Baby Bush at that school the morning the twin towers came down, what are the chances...??!!

9. Is it by chance or being orchestrated by those in high places, that the road for Trump to becoming the next president has been made a lot easier as major obstacles have been cleared away, such as, having legal charges dropped against him, receiving an RNC Republican nomination, and now there's this attempted (or staged) assassination which has increased his popularity?

10. Consider the multiple criticisms from various sources citing gross incompetence from the Secret Service and their security lapses:

Does, however, the fact that Biden, with the previous 4 presidents, including Trump, formally endorsing the Secret Service for their "swift intervention" when dealing with the assassination attempt suggest that something's not right here, implicating it was pre-planned and staged, covered up by those in high places who including Trump were in on it...?

11. This is a small one: Was it a coincidence that right before Trump was shot, he spoke the words: "If you want to see something sad..." as could have been the signal to shoot at him (neuro-linguistic programming)?

Everyone Look Over There, Not At My Ear

12. As part of the staged choreographed hoax, did Trump turn his head to the right and indicate to a distance to this side to misdirect the crowd (cameras included), keeping the attention away from his right ear, allowing the shooter to have a convenient angle, and then covering his ear with his hand to block the camera views after the shooting?

This deliberate movement allowed the bloodiness of the shooting to be theatrically faked after, when Trump was down and hidden by security guards below the podium.

13. After the shooting, there should be blood on Trump's hand while he was holding and covering his ear, so where is it?

14. Was there no continued bleeding on the ear because it was faked, and was the fake blood gooey and thick so that it could smear over and cover up the ear, hiding the fact that there was no tissue loss or damage?

15. Following on, what about the absence of blood on trump's white shirt, wouldn't there be some spatter?

16. Why don't we see blood on his right hand when he does his defiant fist pump (and same hand opened) after the shooting? Remember, Trump had placed this hand over his right ear.

17. Are you aware of the sightings a few days after where Trump's ear is completely intact?!

18. Why are a number of people in the crowd behind Trump showing little interest, is it because they knew what was about to go down?

© 2026

-Take a look at some of the online videos during this shooting detailing the crowd and observe their reactions. For example, straight after the shooting, one woman just casually starts looking away at her mobile while others surrounding are freaking out!

Knowing what was about to happen, it suggests that the woman was told to film the incident.

19. Did the fired bullets come from one of Trump's own snipers from 400 feet?

These 3 shots were caught on video and did NOT go in the direction of Trump when he went down to the ground! -One more piece of evidence to suggest a deception in the Trump assassination hoax.

20. In light of the above was Thomas Matthew Crooks a patsy? Like the Kennedy assassination there was Lee Harvey Oswald and with Abraham Lincoln John Wilkes Booth, all these patsy's (scapegoats) having 3 names. Then there's Osama Bin Laden the so-called culprit for 911...

The consistent 3 names for each patsy could have a subconscious effect on the deceived public. Also, consider the surname Crooks (= villains)...

21. Is it mere coincidence that Thomas Matthew Crooks was in a Black Rock commercial?! (Insider's school?)

22. Did you know that before the run up to the Trump attempted assassination President Biden made some curious comments: He said that it was "Time to put Trump in the bull's eye?"

23. Who was the mysterious man in the grey suit who was said to have hand in clearing the area for the cameraman?

24. Did Crooks have some assistance with his white van found 10 miles away: Did he get out of the van with his back pack, ladder and bike, then his assistant drove away, parked 10 miles away from the area and left the van?

25. How did Crooks have free run with all the above going on in the rally area??

26. What about the cell phones coming in and going out of Crooks' home in the preceding days to the run up of the shoot out?

27. Who was the mystery person who had called at Crooks' home who had been visiting a Washington DC building at gallery Place?

This location is within the vicinity of an FBI office.

28. What about the devices connected to Crooks' work place that was found to have travelled to Butler, Pennsylvania on the dates the 4th, 8th of July and then stopped activity on the 12th of July?

In Conclusion

The evidence suggests that the Trump attempted assassination was a convenient staged hoax. While Crooks the patsy was said to be killed, no evidence proves that bullets were fired at Trump. All we have is the sound of firing...

Trump's popularity has now greatly increased. Suggesting that this was a ploy to usher him in again to soon be the next President of the United States.

Ultimately, this is not about the political viewpoints, it a perception deception with all its deceptive machinations on a misled public. Some will be in cognitive dissonance over this situation.

Indeed, more questions will rise from more evidence...

4.Great Pyramid of Giza - 12 Questions Challenging the Official Explanation

-By Paul A. Philips

On and off for many years, officialdom has had to fight to maintain its explanation as to how the Great Pyramid of Giza came about and its purpose.

The official explanation basically goes like this:

The Great Pyramid of Giza (part of a pyramid complex on the Giza plateau, Egypt) is a burial ground for Khufu, a Pharaoh, dating back to 2,600 BC, as explained by and attributed to a number of classical antiquity authors:

© 2026

It was stated that the Great Pyramid of Giza had taken some 20 – 27 years to complete... Details of the official explanation can be found for example in Wikipedia.

-And that's it.

Nothing more to say other than The Great Pyramid of Giza is a burial ground. Any other explanation alternative to this claim in these academic circles would be branded as heresy!

In retrospect of this and the mounting alternative views backed up with growing supporting evidence here are 12 questions to challenge the official explanation that the Great Pyramid of Giza was a burial ground.

1. There have been many failed attempts to recreate building the Great Pyramid of Giza using modern-day equipment; caterpillar tractors, fork-lift trucks, drills... etc. unable to pick up and deal with the 20, 30, 40, 50 or even 60 plus tonne block stones in the make-up of its over 400 feet high structure.

These block stones were so well-polished there is less than one-thousandth of an inch between them, no binding mortar, again, something modern technology can't do. So how can anyone lay claims to the construction being made by a bunch of primitives with primitive tools?

2. The Great Pyramid of Giza in its construction demonstrates incredible mathematical knowledge. This pyramid demonstrates geometric knowledge of Earth's circumference and diameter and its relationship to that of the moon. It demonstrates knowledge of Earth's magnetic field... the list goes on begging the question how could those primitives have built the Great Pyramid of Giza with such knowledge?

3. On the astounding subject of the limestone blocks contributing to the pyramid's make-up. Did you know that it has been discovered that these limestone blocks don't have the expected same consistency of the abundant natural limestone in the surrounding area at the pyramid? No laminated layers as it is homogenous in composition, no micro-fossils, having chemicals not found in natural limestone...!

4. Did you know that the chemicals mentioned (above) is part of a technology used to produce extremely hardened construction material which was only discovered in the 1990's, yet this was used millennia ago?!

The great Pyramid of Giza and the Sphinx

5. From a geological point of view, don't the claims made by Robert Schoch give rise to a credible explanation that the water erosion patterns (fluvial erosion) at the Sphinx suggest that this statue at the Giza plateau is a lot older than the official explanation makes it out to be?

Robert Schoch claims that these erosion patterns could only have been made by rapid high moving waters during the melting of the last ice age about 12,500 years ago which goes a lot further back in time than the official historical dating. This means that the sphinx had to be in existence even further back in time before the erosion occurred.

-This has been called controversial. However, geologists don't have a problem with the claim, it's the historians who do because it throws their historic claims grossly out.

6. Doesn't this claim, in effect, also throw out the official dating of the Great Pyramid of Giza too, as it has been said that both the pyramids and the sphinx had been constructed at the same time?

7. Did you know that the Pyramid of Giza cannot be carbon dated as it is made of stone? Only organic forms (life) can be dated using this methodology.

The pyramids have been dated using limited history, Kings and eras... which has come into question.

8. Are you aware that the King's chamber in the great Pyramid has never revealed a corpse, contradicting the tomb claim, or no hieroglyphics...?

9. Instead of improving over the years, does the fact that later constructions of other pyramids not as good as the earlier Great Pyramid of Giza suggest that an advanced pre-ancient civilisation had been at work on the Giza Plateau using unprecedented technology?

10. With more and more archaeological evidence arising how can historians dismiss these contradictory findings in relation to their official line and write them of as mere "anomalies?"

11. If there was a pre-ancient advanced civilisation does this prove that instead of being linear making more and more progressive developments over time, civilisations come and go in cycles instead?

That civilisations boom and then bust which correlates with the patterns tied into the cyclical nature of reality.

-There is much to this which would take at least another article to cover...

12. Following on from 11, Isn't it a case of the idea that academia needs to purposefully look beyond the 5,000-odd years attributed to our most recent civilisation?

Consider previous cycles

Above - Anomalous Archaeological Finds. Buildings and artefacts from archaeological sites have revealed the existence of superior technology from the ancient past suggesting there had been advanced super-civilisations.

Were these monuments created by humans perhaps from a golden age, or was it the work of off-planetary visitors?

For instance, the incredible picture above shows the stones of an ancient temple ruin in Baalbek, Lebanon.

© 2026

Besides the Great Pyramid of Giza, there is much, much more evidence to delve into, all over the world that suggests the work of pre-ancient (far older than 5,000-odd years) advanced civilisations.

For examples, consider:

 The Indian gulf of Khambhat

Here lies a 5 X 3-mile-wide underwater city said to have thrived on land as a sophisticated city around 9500 years ago.

iNewParadigm.com

* Gobekli Tepe

Then there's the Turkish archaeological site of Gobekli Tepe. Still undergoing excavation this dates as far back as 13,000 years.

* Satellite photos over Antarctica

© 2026

From the ice melting satellite photos over Antarctica reveal images of what used to be a vast complex of building structures said to be dating back 20,000 years (a previous civilisation cycle to the one we as a race are in now).

Finally

Indeed, it begs the question who built the above-mentioned structures? What happened during their demise?

Will academia be willing to rewrite the history books?

We need to bring the above knowledge into recognition on a worldwide scale.

The new evidence gives us new insights into who we really are as a race and where we go from here.

5. Was the Great Pyramid of Giza a Power Plant?

-By Paul A. Philips

In an earlier article I put forward a number of questions challenging what I consider to be the highly flawed official account that the Great Pyramid of Giza was a burial ground for Khufu (aka Cheops) a 4th dynasty Egyptian Pharaoh 2600 BC (an unproven hypothesis). Besides my earlier article, this current piece further challenges the official account by asking:

Was the Great Pyramid of Giza a power plant, as put forward by a number of researchers?

Great Pyramid of Giza - Power Plant Theory.

Let's look into this hypothesis that the Great Pyramid of Giza was a power plant.

© 2026

First of all, how can anyone say that the Great Pyramid of Giza was a burial ground when:

Inside there have been no discovered corpses, no mummifications, no typically large lavishly designed sarcophagus to contain a pharaoh, no fancy treasures, no ornate wall-art, no indicating inscriptions that it was a tomb...

-Why was the King's chamber so poorly/sparingly decorated? Not the kind of typical surroundings you'd expect for a King.

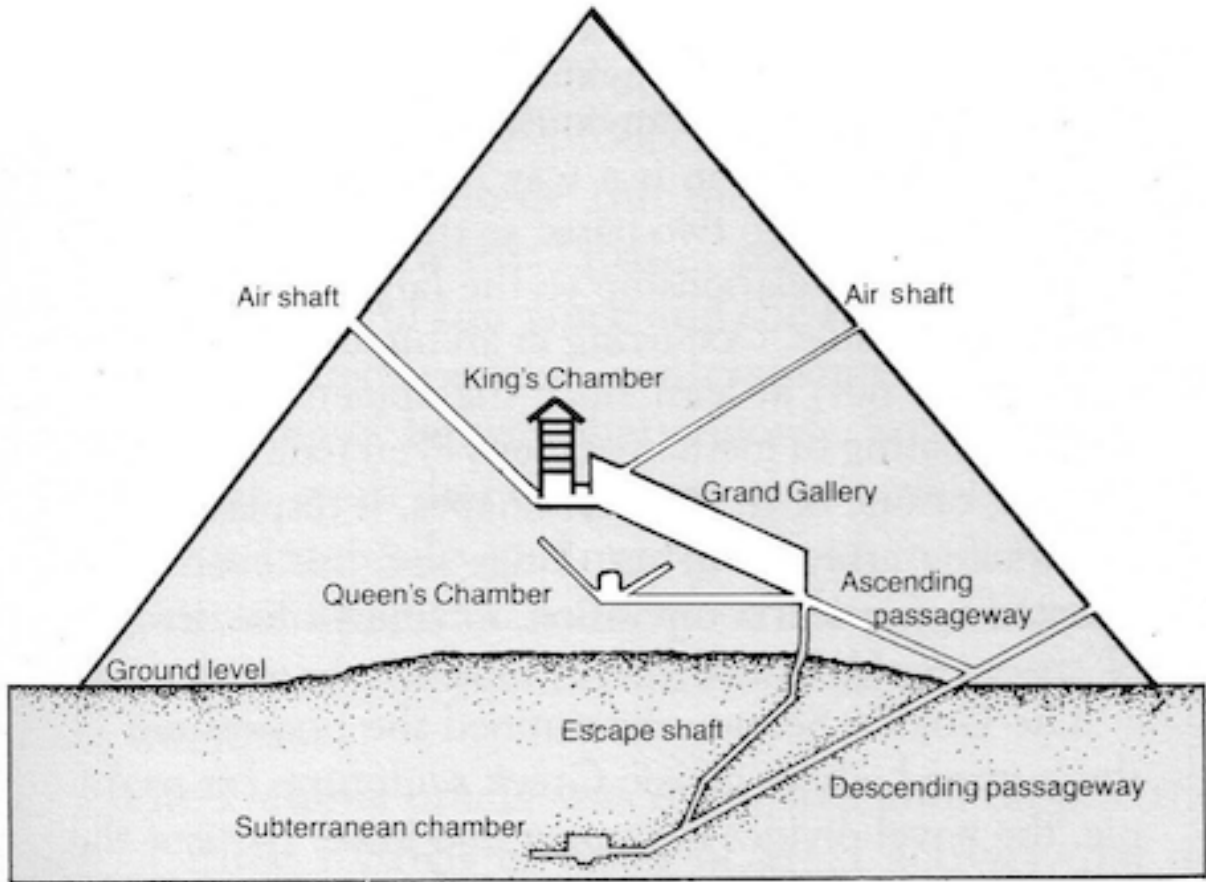

Further, there has not even been a discovery of Egyptian hieroglyphics mentioning the building of the Great Pyramid of Giza anywhere.

Therefore, not only does the purpose of the great pyramid of Giza come into question but so does its age.

Then what was its real purpose?

A clue into answering this could lie in the fact that the Great Pyramid of Giza has a number of very interesting features:

With incredibly accurately designed slanting shafts/tunnels leading in/out of the Great Pyramid of Giza and below its base who would need these features for a burial ground??

How the Great Pyramid of Giza used to look like – marble casing

Devastated by a great earthquake in 1303 and further removed, transported away for other purposes in the area, the used-to-be outer-layer, the white casing stones made of finely polished limestone would have served as perfect insulation to the inside:

The remaining pyramid's inner-surface had been treated with dolomite, a mineral known to have an involvement in increasing electrical activity in direct relation to the amount of pressure applied: The higher the pressure, the greater the electric current generated.

Further, below the base, the pyramid has a number of underground tunnels lined with the mineral granite which is mostly made up of quartz and is treated with metal. This is significant when considering that this allows the conduction of piezo electricity when subject to stress or pressure.

In short and simple terms, the granite has the effect of ionizing the air surrounding inside the Great Pyramid, followed by a chemical reaction which in turn increases the conductivity of the electricity. The increased electrical flow then bypasses pieces of rock via metal wire having the net effect of further amplifying this electrical flow, quite sizably in fact...

-Do you still think that this was just a burial ground?!

Read on.

It has been said that this upward-direction of amplified electricity generation needed a catalyst to make it happen: It had been produced in conjunction with underground aquifers from below the base of the pyramid.

The flowing waters needed to form the aquifers and naturally generate a current had come from the river Nile which used to flow at the pyramid and beyond.

It has been put forward that the water went upwards into the limestone through capillary attraction: A small area gets wet then transfers this wetness to the next region. This next region then transfers water to another region and so on... This transference of water keeps happening until the whole area is wet.

It happened in conjunction with a series of tunnels: One leading down below the base of the pyramid which contacted the aquifer water below. This water contact caused the water to flow upwards through this tunnel. Then the water continued its upwards flow through contacting other tunnels channelling the water passing over the surrounding limestone. Thus, the water could have gone all the way to the top of the great pyramid.

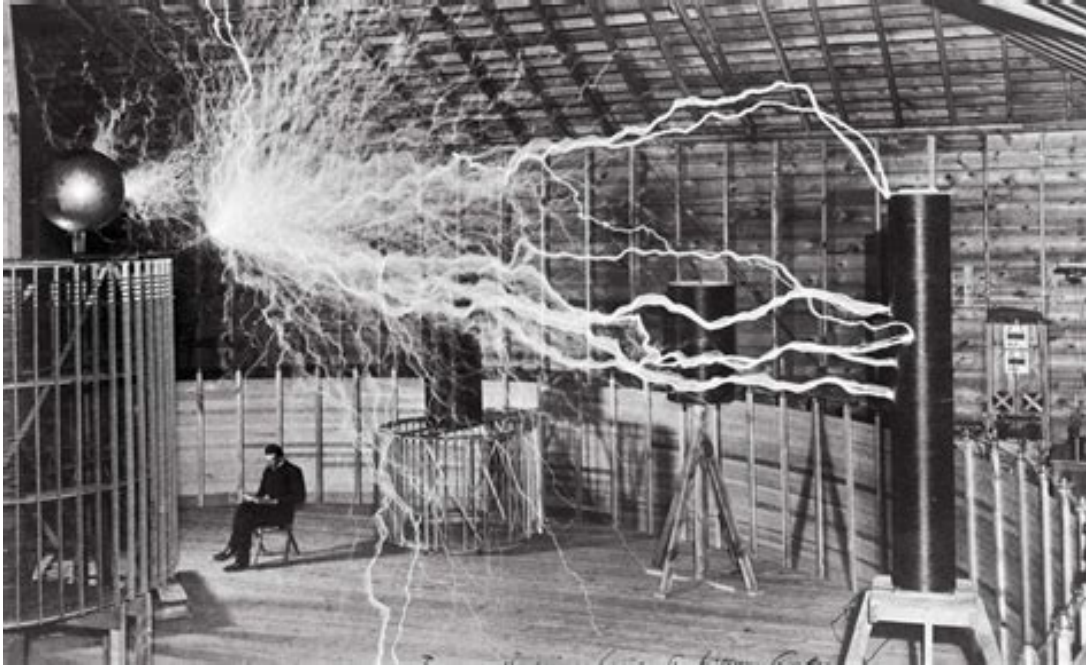

It has been said that the Great Pyramid's tunnel would have received vibration and stress during this upward water flow resulting in the generation of Piezo electricity during the high force pressure changes. Like the water, upward-conducting generated electromagnetic energy also made its way towards to the top where a gold capstone was said to be (now missing as this valuable precious metal was supposedly looted).

The gold could have been an energy-directing source. The electrical energy coming from the pyramid could have then been fed high up into the ionosphere via the gold capstone.

The Great Pyramid of Giza just happens to be at a location where Earth's natural electromagnetic forces can be magnified and telluric currents have been found to be at their strongest.

Hence, the reason for a powerful electromagnetic field coming from the pyramid's base which would have travelled upwards with the aid of chemicals reactions...

Nikola Tesla and Tesla Tower

-This ties in with the idea that Nikola Tesla was extremely interested in the pyramids and it was thought that he devised his Tesla tower based on the Great Pyramid of Giza.

Tesla, in the early 1900's asserted that at an altitude of 30,000 feet high, the stratum of rarefied air there was capable of conducting high voltage electric currents. With this in mind he devised a system, a Tesla Tower was set up in order to transmit extremely high voltages going into the atmosphere. Then at the ground-level a sort of rod, give or take a few modifications, was there to receive the energy and act as a voltage lowering device. With the lowered voltage energy this made it potentially available to many consumers...

However, instead of Tesla's intention happening, to ultimately create a system where everybody could have extremely cheap electricity, this project was quashed. Energy baron funder J.P Morgan withdrew funding using his monopoly and wealth to have Tesla and his project destroyed instead, as it was perceived as a threat to his oil/gas-based energy business.

-That's why this form of wireless electricity generation technology was never known to us and kept under wraps...

Dendera lightbulb

Yes, it is in fact called a Dendera lightbulb! -Many artworks in the area can be seen illustrating what looks like portable lightbulbs.

There are a number of excellent researchers online if you want to research this amazing subject in much more detail.

Chris Dunn is one of your go-to guys.

6.COVID-19 Coronavirus -20 Truth-Seeking Questions EVERYONE Should Be Asking

-By Paul A. Philips

-Or how about the emperor's new virus??

This article may be asking some of you to think the unthinkable. Consider this. Some are saying that ultimately, the virus, COVID-19 coronavirus situation, is a deception; a deliberately overblown threat, secretly orchestrated by those in high places for a worldwide power grab.

That the fake narrative needs your participation for you to fall for the deception: It requires you to obediently unquestioningly accept the opinion of authority and go into sheep-like agreement with the general consensus of the masses.

Is this claim new to you? Or have you had more than a nagging suspicion that the official COVID-19 coronavirus narrative is a monumental deception? For the consideration of protecting you, your family and friends, here at least are 20 soul-searching, truth-seeking questions EVERYONE should be asking right now:

1. In the runup to the covid-19 outbreak, do you think that the October 2019 meeting in New York with the World Economic Forum involving the handling of a fictional coronavirus pandemic can be written off as mere coincidence?
2. How can we be sure that there has been or is a pandemic when initially, the seasonal flu-like deaths for 2020 had not been that different to 2019, and are only average figures in comparison to previous recent years?
3. In support of the above, did you know that a number of health professionals have stated that the COVID-19 coronavirus has never been properly isolated, tested and proven; casting doubt not only on the existence of a pandemic, but the disease itself?

4. In light of the 3 above, have we been played, when where's the justification for the said illegal and disproportionately drastic action related to the lockdown, enforced by dim-bulb politicians through ill-advice from scientists and their now-proven patently fraudulent computer model prediction?

5. Who said that we must be 2 metres apart from each other? The 2-metre social distancing rule has no rational scientific basis. Anyone who's taken the trouble to look at a biology/microbiology textbook would have learnt that disease transmission can occur over 2, 10, or 100's of metres, or even miles!!

6. Did you know that a number of health journals have recommended that masks should not be worn by healthy people during outbreak situations because of their ineffectiveness and downright unhealthiness? Considering their frequent/long-term use, the reasons are that:

(i) Masks are ineffective. Even if you believe in the virus theory (I don't) trying to stop a viral particle using a mask is like using chicken wire to prevent mosquitoes. The mask's smallest mesh/pore size is around 5,000 times greater than a viral particle.

(ii) In any situation good ones such as N95 (pore size) masks are ineffective if they don't properly wrap around the contours of the face. For examples, this could occur when worn on beards, or those who fiddle with the mask, breaking the seal, causing air leaks...

(iii) The area between the mask inner-wall and mouth surface provides a warm hotbed for introducing pathogenic microbial infection causing sores to the skin.

(iv) Masks have the potential to cause unhealthiness such as respiratory illnesses and heart problems (see the warnings supplied by the manufacturer!). The mask seal causes breathing resistance, making it more difficult to breathe. This can cause breathlessness (suffocation) through an unhealthy build-up of CO₂: The exhaled CO₂ re-enters the respiratory system with every inhalation which lacks the needed O₂ supply that would normally be available from the atmosphere without the mask seal.

7. Is social distancing and isolation microbiology for dunces considering it has been well-established that these actions only slow down the rate of the disease and its spread throughout a community?

8. Did you know that your immune system is now weaker because it has not been put to the test like it would when normally mixing with the community?

9. Further, on the long-term, have you also realized that that the enforced lockdown has been grossly counterproductive resulting in more harm than good? As a consequence of the lockdown which has caused economic collapse from a so-called disease that has been said to have no more effect than the flu, consider the:

(i) Rises in mass suicides due to debt problems related to bankruptcy and unemployment.

(ii) Deaths caused by late diagnoses and hospital admission refusals for those needing life-saving treatment. For example, consider the UK National Health Service who now face law suites.

(iii) Increased domestic violence.

(iv) Increased suicides and deaths due to depression through stress, self-isolation and loneliness.

(v) Mass starvation.

(vi) Resulting famine in the breakdowns of supply chains.

10. Did you know that only 0.02% of healthy people are said to have died of covid-19?

11. Did you know that when questioned, a panel of 100 plus doctors said that if it were up to each and every one of them they would give the okay to resume life back to normal as before the coronavirus?

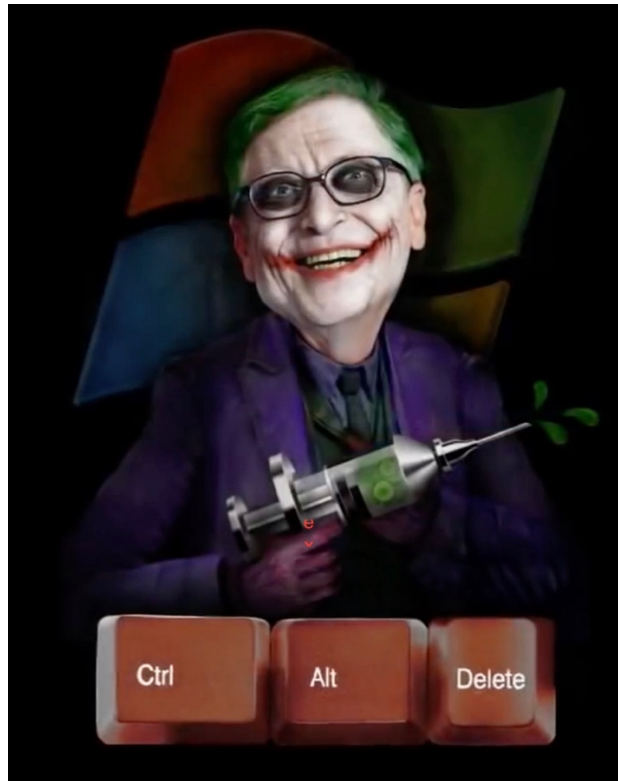

12. Have you been aware of the unjustified mass media hype and fearmongering, using such embellished headlines as "COVID-19 Coming for You Next.," with all its propagandist medical advice, and then there's the false debunking, character assassinating and silencing of those that go against the official narrative...?

13. There has been clear evidence of death certificate manipulation; funeral directors, coroners and doctors... have been told to add on a test positive for COVID-19 when the real causes of death could have been attributed to common illnesses alone such as heart disease. Doesn't this indicate that certain people in high places want you to believe in the falsely elevated COVID-19 deaths?

14. Further, did you know that the PCR (polymerize chain reaction) test used for COVID-19 testing is wildly inaccurate and can produce false positives? Its originator/inventor biochemist Carey Mullis strongly recommended that PCR alone should not be used to confirm test-positives for viruses.

15. There are certain individuals in high places who would love to see the whole world human population vaccinated (against COVID-19) as they would stand to make trillion$, but did you know that vaccinations are hugely flawed? Don't fall for the medical propaganda.

Vaccines:

(i) Have been known to cause more harm than good. Harms such as the crippling and death of children... Vaccine damages are blacked out from being reported by the Big Pharma owned, controlled and sponsored mainstream media.

(ii) Contain unproven, unjustified invasive poisons such as dead foetal cells, carboxylic acids, formaldehyde, heavy metals like mercury...

(iii) May cause the very disease that they're supposed to vaccinate against.

(iv) Have no experimental evidence for their efficacy. No data comparing the control group (non-vaccinated) against the experimental group (vaccinated) where the latter should indicate at least a 5% level of effectiveness compared to the controls.

(v) May be useless because viruses mutate and are able to survive.

(vi) Are based on the acceptance of the flawed unproven germ theory (yes, only a theory!).

It has been said that viruses don't come from outside of the body, but from the inside. They are the result of the body producing ejected particles from the body's cells (exocytosis of viral particles) into the intercellular fluid and then removed as an attempt to heal itself. In other words, viruses are not microorganisms.

It should therefore not be called infection but out-fection, for want of a word...

(vii) Are capable of altering our DNA.

16. Has the effective hydroxychloroquine treatment been ignored because it is an alternative (competitor?) to Big Pharma's money-spinning vaccine business?

17. Will there be more lockdowns in future, based on new circumstances and unfavourable conditions that we must accept, such as the following?

(i) Mandatory vaccinations.

(ii) Real-time tracking applications monitoring our every move, (COVID-1984 Big Brother is watching you scam-demic, used under the guise of the fight against a deliberately exaggerated fake disease to get our compliance).

(iii) A cashless society

(iv) A society divided and ruled: Using unjust ridicule and heavy-handed suppression on those with different views to the official narrative...

18. Isn't it clear by now that this has never been about health, nothing to do with compassion and caring, looking after your best interests at heart, NO, it's about control: New World Order control and takeover?

19. Are you going to accept this post-pandemic world as the new normal?

20. For further reading, have you considered that this virus has a number of common denominators related to a false flag disease?

-That concludes my 20 questions, but yes, there are many more, so question EVERYTHING for the protection of you, your family and friends:

In light of the above, will you push back, are you a lion or a sheep?

-Indeed, there many more questions that could be asked.

Stay on the inquiry with this!

7.The Moon Is a fascinating Enigma! – 20 Related Questions

-By Paul A. Philips

The Great Pyramid of Giza has many mysteries. The same can be said about the moon.

Contrary to popular viewpoint, the moon is not what many think it is. Separate to the alleged fake moon landing, there are number of interesting, credible theories surrounding its existence. In short, credible evidence from meticulous research shows the moon to be a fascinating enigma.

-In relation to this, here are 20 questions about the moon showing that its existence makes it a fascinating enigma.

1. Did you know that how the moon came into existence is a hotly debated mystery?

Theories include:

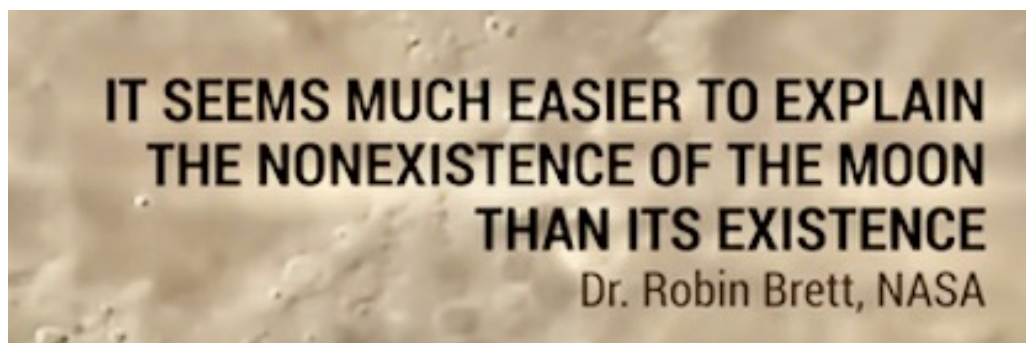

The capture theory – Puts forward the idea that the moon, as it was drifting by, finally ended up near the Earth due to the Earth's gravitational pull. However, this theory doesn't stand up and has been dismissed as highly, highly improbable.

The accretion theory – Earth and the moon coincidentally formed in proximity with each other from dust clouds during the beginning of the solar system's formation. However, the accretion theory is unable to stand up to scrutiny because the Moon doesn't have the same or similar material composition as Earth. Nor does it spin on an axis like Earth.

Then there's the fission hypothesis – The idea that due to high velocity spin the newly formed Earth ejected a large rock from an ocean. This large rock then flung out into space and went on to form the moon. However, rock samples from the moon indicate a much older age rock than Earth's.

The giant impact or whack theory – Puts forward the idea that a massive object collided into Earth. The debris from the collision eventually coalesced forming the Earth/Moon orientation, but it has been said that the chances of this happening are infinitesimal.

-There are other theories that scientists cannot agree upon.

2. Did you know that the moon has some strange anomalies, such as, for example, the oldest rocks are on the surface and the youngest at the deepest core layer, the opposite to Earth?

3. Also, are you aware that the moon has its densest (heaviest) materials at the surface and the least dense at the core, again the opposite to Earth?

4. The moon's surface has many pock marks through getting hit by asteroids over the billions of years, so how is it that the rock surrounding these impacted craters have a uniform age?

5. Following on from 4, considering the many years of impacts how is it that the moon dust surrounding the rocks has a vastly different chemical composition?

6. How is it that the moon has the elements uranium 236, and neptunium 237 when these radioactive elements don't exist naturally?

-These rare isotopes can only be created in labs on Earth!

7. Further, rare metals on Earth such as chromium, titanium and zirconium occur abundantly on the moon, so, as with 6, why the differences in occurrences when comparing with Earth?

8. Does the abundance of these metals with their high hardness, tensile strength and therefore resilience explain why regardless of width the moon's craters have very little varying depth from asteroid impacts...?

9. Did you know that evidence investigated by NASA suggests that the moon is hollow?

-NASA's Dr. Gordon MacDonald: "It would seem that the moon is more like a hollow than a homogenous sphere."

When objects hit the moon's surface (shock waves), the moon "rang like a bell" (echoing) quite for some time, as seismic recordings were made of this event... Then there were magnetic field measurements, supporting the suggestion of a hollow-shell moon.

10. However, suggestions of a hollow structure have been dismissed by some scientists who claim that the moon 'rang like a bell' only because the moon is extremely dry and far less dense than Earth, but has this really been proven to be the case?

As with the idea of the 'centre of the Earth' theory, the 'centre of the moon' needs more knowledge and understanding. So, any outright claims that the moon is not hollow is mere conjecture.

-Following on:

11. If the moon is a dry 'dead place,' no atmosphere, then how come is it that there have been detections of water vapour?

For example, on and off, over the last century, half a dozen astute astronomers have documented the existence of glowing mists above the Plato Crater alone...

12. Did you know that the moon, unlike others moons in our solar system, has a perfectly circular orbit?

13. The moon is 1/400th the diameter of the sun: The moon is 400 moon diameters away from the sun, this is why those on Earth observe an eclipse. -Is this a mere coincidence??

-The moon is drifting further away from Earth as the eclipses become less perfect.

14. Did you know that there are ancient accounts of the skies coming from, for example, the Proselenes from Arcadia and Tiahuanaco culture, South America, claiming there was a time when the moon didn't exist?

15. In light of the above evidence are you astounded to know that the old Zulu legends claimed the moon is a hollow spaceship occupied by reptilian ET's...?!

-Remember this is only a legend (myth) and real evidence is needed to support this claim.

16. If the moon didn't exist would our Earth be unstable; having disruptive wobbling effects, no seasons, extremity in weather conditions, no tides...?

17. Following on from 16, was the moon put into its position to give stability to Earth?

18. Did you know that there have been reports of disturbing and strange light sources and hundreds of flashes, on the moon which cannot be easily dismissed as mere light reflections?

This has been dubbed Transient Lunar Phenomena.

Further, there have been claims of artificial structures on the surface: Claims of, for examples, mile-high towers, pyramids and photographic evidence of unnaturally occurring symmetrical structures... Evidence for this has been given by people like Sergeant Karl Wolfe who worked in the US Air Force and had collected moon images...

19. Does the caginess, selectiveness about the information that government agencies and space organisations give out suggest that they are covering up certain information about the moon that they don't want us to know about?

20. In short, can these agencies and governmental organisation really be trusted?

-if you want us to believe what you're saying about the moon, then prove it to us.

8.What Happens When You Die?

-By Paul A. Philips

While I'm about to broach upon the various opinions of others, to a certain extent, this is my personal overall view when answering the question what happens when we die. If you disagree, if I go against your religion or on the other hand, agnostic view, or any other differing viewpoint, then that's fine. We can respectfully agree to disagree.

However, what I'm about to put forward is not without careful research and deliberation: Remember the Einstein quote "Condemnation without investigation is the height of ignorance."

And remember, as the saying goes, your mind is like a parachute: It works best when it's open.

So, I suggest that you carefully consider the following and do your own research in response to this 60,000-dollar question: What happens when you die?

© 2026

Death Pain and Fearmongering

Firstly, the run up to death, how you die, is indeed concerning. How much pain and suffering will you endure before you die? However, a healthy approach along the way in mind, body and spirit before death may well lessen the pain and suffering, or even create the ideal circumstance where you just go to sleep, never to wake up again...

-Consider the deaths of highly advanced spiritual beings such as the yogis or Zen masters or shamans who have died in this circumstance.

If you have a level of awareness and look into your intuitive heart, you will know when you're soon to die, as have a number of these yogis, shamans and Zen masters...

Contrary to much fearmongering spun by many in religion, folklore, news and society... death is really nothing to fear. Death is a transition as you move on.

You Cannot Not Exist...

My favorite analogy comes from ancient Gnostic teachings: The Gnostics said, who you really are is a "bird in a cage." That's another way of saying you're an eternal consciousness trapped in a mortal body. When you die your physical body (cage) withers away and falls apart, allowing your eternal consciousness (bird) to fly out, escaping what had been an entrapment.

Research from Near Death Experiences, deep meditative states, outer body experiences, astral projection, mind-altering plant-based extractions such as the drinking of ayahuasca... can in effect create states of consciousness that occur when you die, no longer having the encumbrance of a physical body.

Originations from these states consistent with experiencing death are:

*Experiencing multidimensionality – No longer confined to linear time. Everything occurs "all at once." -The laws of physics only exist in the material universe as they are the defining boundaries of the matrix illusion programme...

*Feelings of omnipresence. Not confined to one location.

*No longer limited by the illusory material universe confinements of matter, energy, space and time. Because you're dead, you can transfer your conscious spirit from one place to another in no time at all. For example, if you're a dead mother who wants to see her son living on the other side of the world, then you can just think about this and be there instantly.

*Heightened awareness, even perceive things you couldn't when in-the-body.

*Psychic abilities.

*Lost senses are regained. For example, if you had become deaf when alive, hearing is regained.

*Feelings of euphoria – having a higher vibrational energy...

My research has led me to conclude that after you die, you do not go to Heaven or Hell because these places in the classical religious sense, do not exist. The Hell scenario is blatant manipulative man-made fearmongering.

There is strong evidence for reincarnation, such as that from the amazing research carried out by Dr Ian Stevenson. He has confirmed that we go into endless cycles of reincarnation. If continued reincarnation is the case, then it could be said that we never end up in Heaven or Hell never to return, because no such places exist.

These places were made up people in high places in religion/governance to keep the masses pacified and controlled. It is a toxic case of using spirituality (which should be above all) as an excuse to use controlling dogmatic religion for power, profit and political gains....

You therefore have 2 existences: 1. In-the-body and 2. Out-of-body

It has been said that when you are in-the-body the material world believed to be real is in actual fact a controlling illusory matrix. As I have written over and over in my blogs/articles, consistent with the controlling illusory matrix, the world we live in is riddled with deception.

You'd do well to discern those deceptive moves. Take actions so that you can protect yourself and your family from the matrix to avoid its energy-draining despotic enslavement.

The Controlling Matrix Principle

Just because you have died and are out-of-the-body, no longer in the material world, it doesn't mean to say you're free from deception. There is also much deception to avoid in the spirit world!

The Archons

Ancient Gnostic texts discovered in Nag Hammadi Egypt reveal a group of parasitic borg-like malevolent entities called the archons. They reside in the lower-astral dimension. -Yes, I know, this may be a hard one for some to except, but for your freedom's sake, read on.

The Gnostic texts basically describe the archons as the architects of the material universe. It has been said that this illusory material world we are entrapped in, believing to be real, is a set up orchestrated by the archons:

Able to manipulate your perception, it has been said that when you die the archons (are-cons) try and trick you into reincarnation. Why would they want to do this?

The archons feed off our energies of frustration, anger, fear and despair... (called the 'loosh').

© 2026

This is why they keep sending us back for perpetual reincarnation into this fake material realm. Therefore, the archons are negative energy-sucking, controlling parasites.

-Thus, in effect, as The Matrix movie (more or less) says we have been manipulated to be here as batteries.

A number of people in high places. Some despots in politics, some who may be heads of multi-national corporations, some also involved in other diabolical wicked forces...etc., have sold their souls to the dark side as they have had a hand in causing so much misery and suffering to the world as human agents for the archons.

However, while doing deals (pacts) with the dark side means getting a short-term payoff, there is also a far greater long-term cost.

It has been said that when you die and chose the 'tunnel of light' it's a trick. You will be trapped when you reach the end. You will then be sent back, reborn into the material world again, having no memory of who you were before in previous incarnations.

Another deception when out-of-the body is the ability of lower 4th dimensional malevolent entities who don't want you escaping the matrix is to project on to you a false image. Having A.I advanced technology they can read your thoughts and project on to you an image of a dead loved one, such as your late father, if he had died.

-Don't fall for this. Ask the fake father questions that only you and your real father would have known. Not able to answer you, the entity will prove to you to be fake...

Further, in the deception. If the NDE (Near Death Experiencer) is Christian then a projection of Jesus could be seen. If Muslim, then Mohammed could be seen. If the NDE belonged, for another example, to the African Boa, Boa tribe (this does exist) then an image of one of their deities would be projected... -The projected A.I is culturally specific.

They have to get your consent

Further pieces of evidence for what happens when you die have been discovered through accounts of those who have had NDE's.

An NDE (Near Death Experiencer) encounters, for example, a man in white shroud-like clothing. Having a white beard, looking like a 100-years old, brimming with humility, he explains to the NDE, you don't have to return (back in-the-body), but you will be needed there...

In other words, the NDE is given an apparent choice to return (or not): The NDE however, accepts the rhetoric and returns.

It's a deception because the NDE was tricked by a malevolent entity masquerading as wise old man (fake God?) into returning to the imprisoning matrix.

Another deception is where an entity approaches you and pretends to be your spirit guide. The entity ends up taking you to a place where, like the end of the tunnel of light, you are processed for reincarnation, then sent back to Earth in the matrix again.

Don't be so trusting. Learn to discern. Don't follow and certainly not make heroes out of these entities. Do NOT make soul contracts (next life plan agreements) with any of these entities, no matter what the negotiation is based on:

Rid yourself of the illusions. They have to get your consent to make you return.

Unlike the archons, humans have divinity and souls.

We are capable of escaping the enslavement by recognizing that as humans (hu-mans) we have divinity and are divine souls.

We have to avoid getting caught up in the duality of the matrix illusion.

We have to do our inner work, particularly when it comes to healing; dealing with our shadows.

We need to demonstrate that we are the embodiment of love and light.

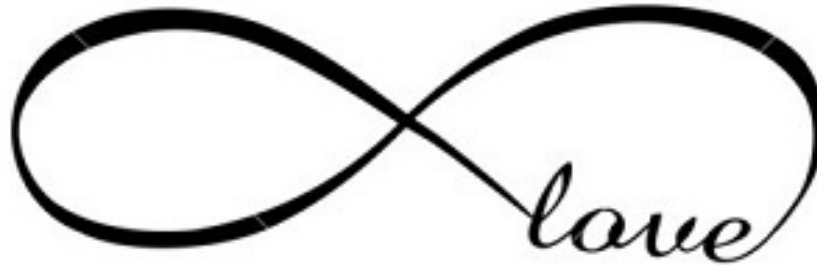

We are that spark that connects to the integral, universal consciousness: God-All-There-Is.

-All of which, if encompassed will break the perpetual cycles.

9.What Is Love?

-By Paul A. Philips

To answer the question "what is love?" first, let's take look at what it isn't:

Love is NOT:

- * Possession; including your loved ones together with your car in the garage, wardrobe full of clothes... etc.
- * Egoic domination, controlling, maintaining a sense of belonging...
- * Feelings or emotions; a bunch chemical, physiological responses...

-Because the above things are only reactions to love.

Many of the above reactions may cause an outness of alignment with real love, resulting in suffering negative consequences; anger, jealousy, regret, suspicion, resentment, heavy judgment connected with fear...

Further, and in contrast, the laws of attraction may not work if there is an over-focus on the materialist 5-sense 3-D reality: This may cause a mis-alignment with the higher 5-D love vibration, preventing the intended manifestation from happening.

© 2026

Another reason why love is something we don't really understand is because it's something that's much bigger than us. Therefore, it's effective to know that we don't know what love truly really is.

Love is a process you engage in to understand who you really are. It's a never-ending unfolding process, as love has no boundaries. The quicker this can be learned, the better off you'll be!

The more this alignment-to-love process is applied the freer you'll be: As the fog lifts, in your expression, you become more soul-dominant. Having raised your vibration, you'll have more cause and effect in your life.

Yes, of course, love is not merely a romance. - It's much more than that, so, let's take a look. How does the following fit in your life?

What is love? Love is:

1. An intrinsic natural love for yourself.

Self-love is an absolute must-have when we face having to choose between so many contrasting vibrations such as, for example, unworthiness and its different forms.

When you discover who you truly really are, in alignment with love, you experience soul and self-love.

Consider the consequences. Consider creating the space from self-love!

2. Your innate love for partnership, children and other family members.

Any problems in relationships? -Then communicate: If in doubt talk it out!

Love is the outcome of being in communication.

Love and communication: An increase of one produces an increase in the other.

3. A devotion to and caring for the groups or teams you belong to and loving the related teamwork...

What other way is there to play life's ball games! Camaraderie, loyalty, honesty and trust stem from the love of being with those people you belong to in groups, teams and the related teamwork. Indeed, one aspect of this shows that human beings are natural social animals in their behaviour.

4. An intrinsic natural love for the human race.

For that much-needed planetary turnaround to happen we the human race must unselfishly act as one. We must come together and choose the vibratory pathway aligned to love and act from this place. Consider this collective grouping tapped into the love vibration with its powerful synergistic effects.

© 2026

-This is the essence of those who have already awakened: The front-runners creating and forging the cutting-edge new paradigm pathway for a world that makes a difference for everyone.

5. A respect for all living things.

Since we cannot create life forms then our love and respect should be given to all living things. Give help where there's suffering or devastation. No cruelty or exploitation. For examples, no animal cruelty or chopping trees down unnecessarily...

In other words, express our humanity; show kindness, consideration, empathy, caring and compassion by helping all living things.

Acknowledge that all living things are like us, an expression of the One: God – All-There-Is.

6. An innate loving for all things environmental; a caring for Mother Earth and our universe...

For one of many instances, kudos to all those having an active involvement in dealing with the problem we face with bottom of the sea environmental plastic pollution. A recent study only spells out the gravity of the situation while this is occurring at seas worldwide.

7. Having an affinity for the spiritual.

-Notice as we go down this list, the love gets bigger...? How big is your love?

It's important to maintain a balance between the physical and the spiritual when practicing spirituality.

For instance, over the centuries and as a rebuttal to the control and domination of the Roman Catholic church science and the scientific approach was born. Instead of incorporating the spiritual, science became closed and dogmatic, only focussing its unwavering attention on materialism.

This still goes on today. Science, in order to progress, desperately needs to go beyond the dogmatic confines of materialism and reductionism. -Remember, as Nikola Tesla said:

"The day science begins to study non-physical phenomena, it will make more progress in one decade than in all the previous centuries of its existence."

Awakened, courageous scientists will go beyond the limiting materialistic dogmas, embrace and integrate the spiritual for a new paradigm scientific approach. This has to be the only way forward.

8 = ∞ (8 turned to the side to form the "infinity" symbol) A natural intrinsic love for God: ALL-THERE-IS -That concludes this take on "what is love."

10. Fake Alien invasion – Are They Planning the Ultimate False Flag?

-By Paul A. Philips

We have recently seen a significant push for reinstating mandatory military service. Both the UK and USA have called for all young people to be drafted. Manufactured fake wars tied in with a hidden depopulation agenda may explain the push for these high numbers.

However, given that there's no need for so many soldiers these days, as war scenarios are now fought using high-tech weaponry; for examples, remotely operated cyber-controlled aircraft, robotics and drones... etc., could there be another angle to this?

-Could a planned fake alien invasion be in the cards as the ultimate false flag?

Consider the millions of conscripts required to deal with such a scenario to fight on homeland. Could, for instance, the U.S military conscript be part of a concerted operation tied into a covertly planned fake alien invasion?

In retrospect, what about the legacy mainstream media's many recent publications covering aliens. All on the same page, asking the same questions such as, "Do aliens

reside among us?" or, "Are they secretly working together planning an invasion...?"
Then there are the numerous accounts of alien encounters from whistleblowers and ordinary people, receiving a lot of attention basically saying "They are here..."

Is this part of the conditioning designed to get the public used to and then be fooled into a hostile alien invasion threat, not knowing that the whole thing is deep-state manufactured?

Would the public be fooled?

The recent House of Representatives approved National Defense Authorization Act has made an amendment that will register all able-bodied resident males aged 18-26 for selective service into the U.S military in 2025. There are intentions to expand registration to draft women. For more on this go here.

-What if these young people forced to enlist soon find themselves fighting a formidable alien foe?

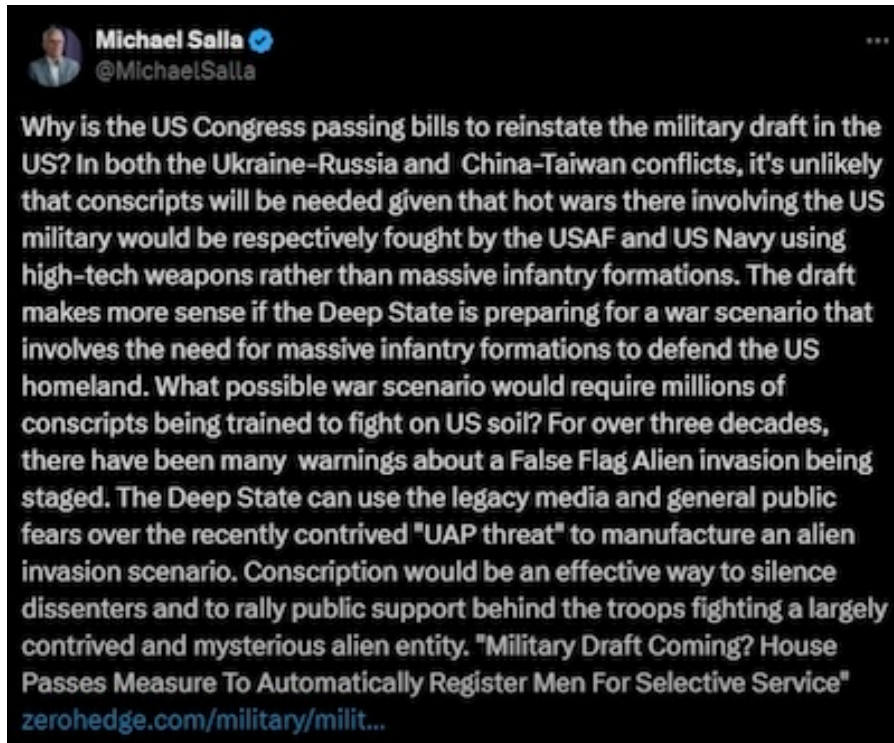

Consider the resulting grave concerns for these young people from their parents and other close relatives giving their support. So emotionally struck, some losing their senses, would the nature of the fake alien foe bring less skepticism, while allowing the deep state to get away with the fakery?

Remember, to most people, a potential alien threat is thought to come from off-worlds, aliens showing up in the sky, not from underground lairs. Would an attack from aliens coming from underground really shake people, as they had not been prepared for this? How would this unexpected invasion be reassessed?

Purpose – endgame goal

What would be the real agenda behind this massive recruitment? Bear in mind, as already mentioned, large-scale infantry and combat formation is not needed: A large-scale U.S military setup involved in the Ukraine conflict, or for instance, the potential need to fight off enemy attacks in Taiwan has been dismissed by some as not necessary.

One person who thinks the high conscription numbers are unnecessary is Dr. Michael Salla, a renowned researcher, pioneer of 'Exopolitics' who has revealed the Secret Space Program. He puts forward that the contrived alien threat could come from cloned aliens made in deep underground military bases. Dr. Salla states that cloning technology over the years has been extremely well-developed.

Further, he says these programmed life forms, cloned entities, derived from crypto-terrestrials, non-human intelligences that have been dwelling underground for thousands of years, could rise up to ground-level in the numbers and overrun major cities, creating the illusion that they have come from outer space... In effect, it will then justify large-scale military mobilization and intervention.

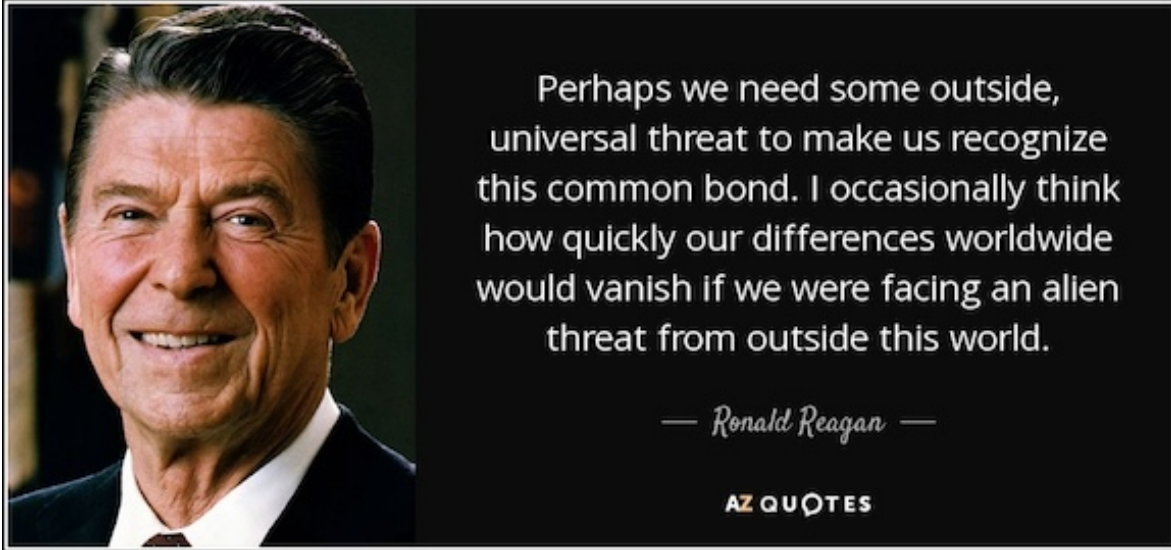

-I know that some may find this hard to swallow, but perhaps we should keep an open mind.

As with all false flag psyops you have to ask "who gains?" In the event of a fake alien invasion. The endgame goal (gain) would be to assert centralized control and power. I'll explain:

© 2026

With most people having no idea of what's really going on in this deception, the United States government, the respective administration and the millions involved in the military activity would be revered for overseeing homeland "protection" and "victory" over the secretly cloned-army aliens, but it doesn't end there.

The deception would continue. The military industrial complex and government would insist on maintaining the millions upon millions of soldiers in case of another alien invasion (which they would secretly manufacture again). After all, these aliens are capable of unexpectedly popping up from underground here, there and everywhere again at any time...

Consider the money needed to keep these soldiers needed for U.S homeland protection and then there could follow another manufactured fake alien invasion.

In the rhetoric, this would be quite a power grab, bringing in huge profits for those who stand to gain through orchestrating this manipulative scam: The military industrial complex and those corporate crony governmental associates in high places.

Consider this invasion and its same affects in other countries. On that scale, wouldn't it therefore make the fake alien invasion the ultimate false flag scenario? The ultimate psyop. The ultimate power grab given its unlimited potential as a perpetual existential threat resulting in endless wars. Endless profits for the military industrial complex. -Talk about draining financial resources...

-In retrospect, perhaps we should be more afraid of governments than aliens.

11. My Questions Challenging Darwin's Theory of Evolution

-By Paul A. Philips

Indeed, ever since its publication in 1859 Charles Darwin's book 'The Origin of Species' has caused much debate but has been considered by many to be the only logical/rational explanation as to how life came about:

The formation of more complex organisms from simpler pre-existing ones over time through natural selection. However, it must be remembered that Darwin's theory of evolution is only opinion based.

I make this point because many people, such as scientists, make 'leaps of faith' in the theory by sometimes stating, in so many words, that it's a fact.

Everywhere I go the bookshops shelves are stacked with many authors supporting Darwin's theory in their work with hardly anything to be found that challenges.

© 2026

In spite of this there are a number of excellent books challenging the theory such as Michael Denton's 'Darwin a Theory in Crisis' and 'Shattering the Myths of Darwinism' by Richard Milton, and no doubt, both authors have created a stormy debate...

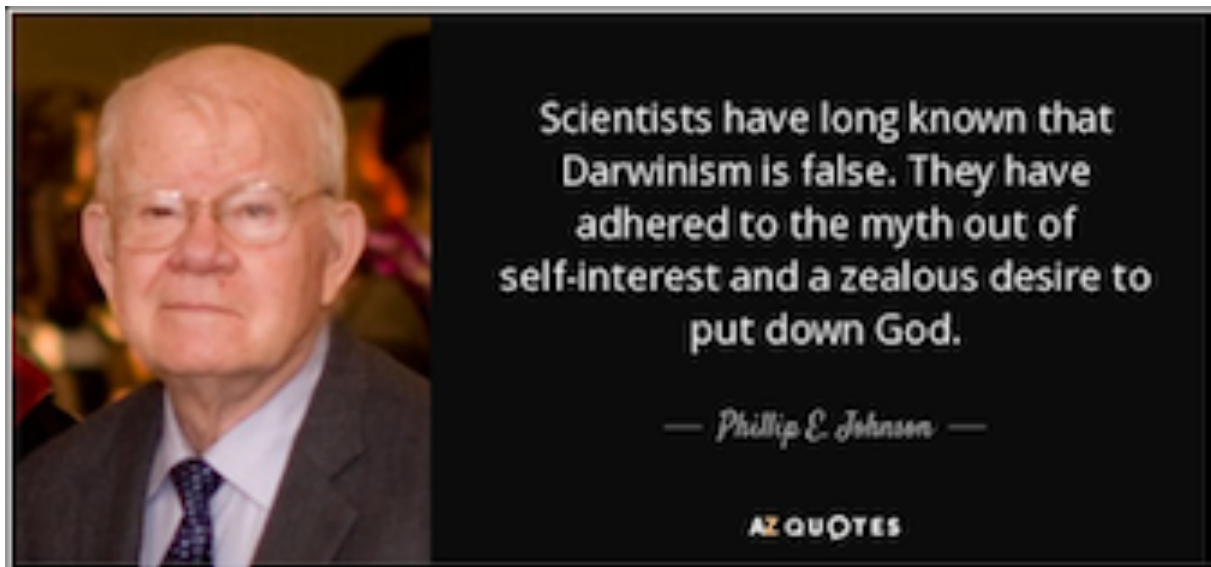

Like others writing against Darwinism, do they expose the fact that Darwin's book The Origin of Species has holes in the plot?

I wrote this out of concern.

In light of a lack of publicity or absence in the education system not looking at the alternative explanations and challenges to Darwinism I strongly suspect that the hidden powers that shouldn't be have chosen to promote Darwin's theory because it serves their scientific, social and political agenda to manipulate and control the masses:

It promotes the materialistic idea that it's all about the 'survival of the fittest' in a competitive world...

This competition brainwashing and mindset suits them to a tee, and then there's the idea of atheism, that we are here by accident, are not spiritual and there's is no God...

Questions are answers

So, here are just some of my questions challenging Darwin's Theory of Evolution. Remember, the definition of evolution is the formation of more complex organisms from simpler pre-existing ones over time through natural selection.

Q1. Evolution should be occurring now, but there are no forms seen in the transitional state today looking like a cross between the old species from which they have evolved and the new species they will become.

For examples, it has been said that a bird evolved from a reptile, so where today can we see the 'rebirds' or taking the case of a chimp and human, where are the 'hupanzees'?

Q2. Where are the fossilized missing links as evidence to show evolution occurring in the past as proof that there existed those transitional intermediates?

Q3. On the subject of today, scientists have taken rapidly reproducing organisms such as bacteria and fruit flies with their short life-cycles and have manipulated their genes (mutations) and made environmental changes, but have not observed any new species from their efforts with these organisms.

Why didn't the manipulated mutations and the environmental changes over the many, many generations produce new species?

Q4. Doesn't this mean that scientific experimentation and investigation cannot show evolution in action so evolution is not a science?

Q5. Carrying on from Q4, even though different species do have similarities like chimps and humans why has there never been any real explanation given to explain their strikingly obvious differences?

Q6. Many hark at those pointing out similar genetic, embryonic and physical resemblances between species, for example, when comparing chimps and humans. However, there are no fossil records to show the transition of one species to the other over time... so the claim that they had originated from a common ancestor cannot be proved (Q2 where are the so-called ubiquitous missing links?!) ... Isn't it therefore reasonable to suggest intelligent design since any designer would take similarities and make minor modifications...?

Q7. Why do the school biology text books never outline ANY of the creditable alternative explanations challenging evolution? The content on evolution is therefore cherry picked. For one of many examples, the school biology text books list genetic similarities pointing out that evolution was the reason for changes in species using respective comparisons between chimps and humans, wolves and dogs...etc as examples.

However, it's never pointed out that unlike the above there are many comparisons that are far from clear cut. For examples, it's never mentioned that cows are more genetically related to dolphins than horses, while the insectivore elephant shrew is more genetically related to the elephant... the contradictory list goes on...

Q8. The 2nd law of thermodynamics states that in nature everything naturally goes toward disorder or disorganisation (entropy). Taking this proven universal law of nature into account, and nothing has ever been shown to go against it; doesn't it mean therefore evolution could never have happened?

Mathematical improbability

Imagine walking down the street and finding a lost lottery ticket on the sidewalk and in that week winning the jackpot with it. Then, next week you find another lost lottery ticket that goes on to win the jackpot again. The same thing happens over 7 consecutive weeks... This would never happen in real life. The chances of it happening are statistically too high... hence the saying it's a mathematical improbability. Bearing this in mind:

Q9 Mutations are usually harmful or neutral. The advantageous mutations for natural selection are few and far between. So, doesn't the idea of evolution occurring through these rare advantageous mutations to the environment make it a mathematical improbability?

Q10. Carrying on with Q8 and to use an example to clarify. A designer engineer knows that he/she needs to have a high percentage completion on the assembling of a product before it starts to become functional. For instance, let's say for arguments' sake a certain car needs to be about 85% parts assembled before it starts to become functional. Okay, the car may be sluggish and have many glitches in its running but after, when the other 15% parts are assembled, it will be fully and smoothly functional...

Now, in light of this, as an example, consider the evolution of a pair of lungs. The first, say, roughly 85% of the formation of a pair of lungs would not only have to come about blindly without any function and have no advantages to the environment for it to be selected for, but also get selected from mutations that are not harmful or neutral... so once again, my question; is this so unlikely to happen (never) that it's a mathematical improbability?

Q11. The human genome project at the turn of this millennium gave some interesting results. One of those was the finding that a significant percentage of chemical composition in the genome was not found common in the environment. If evolution was true, our genome would be purely be made up of environmental materials only, so where did this unknown composition come from?

Q12. Can you give one example where the genetic information in an organism has been seen to increase by a mutation or evolutionary process?

I could indeed ask many more questions challenging Darwin's theory but I'll leave it there. I hope I've encouraged the reader to keep questioning everything including Darwinism.

12. Questions Challenging the high Cholesterol / Heart Disease Theory

-By Paul A. Philips

Judging from reports made by the mass media and their sponsors the medical/pharmaceutical establishment you'd swear that they would want to have cholesterol lowering drugs statins put in the water!

Stains produce massive sales. In American for example they run into tens of billions of dollars. So it's no wonder that the medical/pharmaceutical establishment have been heavily touting their claims that statins lower blood cholesterol which, as they say, reduces the risk of strokes and heart disease.

Other sources, such as Dr Malcolm Kendrick author of "The Great Cholesterol Con" as the title indicates, has a different viewpoint.

© 2026

I will put forward my questions which in effect express some of those alternative viewpoints, challenging the high cholesterol heart disease theory.

1. Can it really be said that high cholesterol is an indicator that heart disease is present or on its way in individuals when there is so much evidence to the contrary.

For example, what about the studies made on us Brits and our neighbouring countries showing that France has the greatest cholesterol but the lowest incidence of heart disease?

2. Then there are the Aborigines, having about 4 times more heart disease than us Brits and Americans, but how is it that they possess the lowest blood cholesterol?
3. How can statins be indiscriminately justified in women when there are a number of medical studies such as the one done at Harvard, showing their ineffectiveness?
4. Why are statins recommended to certain age groups like for example men in their 70's or over when they do not have heart disease and the statins do nothing for reducing cholesterol levels?
5. Isn't the idea of eating less cholesterol in the diet to prevent heart disease rather ineffective when the body's metabolism yields something like 4 times more than a steady diet?
6. Heart disease problems like artery blockage and blood cholesterol has no significant cause and effect relationship with the long-term eating of animal fat. Why has this fact received little attention in mainstream media?
7. Studies have shown that overall; statins do not change how long people are going to live. I don't normally like to say the obvious here but I will. Doesn't this show how ineffective statins are?

8. In reflection of the above questions challenging the high cholesterol heart disease theory, does it show that the use of ineffective statins is a grand deception in a multi-billion dollar industry, aided and abetted by the medical/pharmaceutical establishment, a paid off mainstream media touting their effectiveness while suppressing the contradictions... and a government that allows this to happen because they receive huge revenues?

9... and what about the side effects of statins?

More on this

The Great Cholesterol Scam

– 7 Myths

As with cholesterol, we can now see the wilful ignorance demonstrated by cardiac medicine in not dealing with the root cause of heart disease, which is diet.

Because the focus is on treating the symptoms rather than the cause there have been differences of opinion on how to deal with heart disease and what can be done to stop the occurrence of heart attacks and strokes.

13.Can The Power of Intention Change Your Life and the World?

-By Paul A. Philips

This incredible story is related to the power of intention. I knew of a scientist who works in black operations. The work he's doing, to put it mildly, is not contributing to humanity, quite the opposite in fact: Conscience-racked, he wants to expose the work he's involved in to the public at large, but cannot for good reasons.

If he did 'THEY' would get to his family one by one and then him.

If he decided to go AWOL or elope further than a fixed millage radius within his workplace he has a capsule embedded in his body that would get remotely operated to dissolve, releasing a contained deadly poison...

© 2026

-For me, undoubtedly, the most revealing secret he said was this, which has stuck with me for a long time and like I've said it's totally relevant to the above title:

He said, the biggest fear the hidden powers that be have is the day the people they're covertly controlling wake up en masse and realize that when thoughts and intentions are put together and focussed on in high numbers the world can change to such an extent that the very fabric of reality can be bent and reshaped.

For example, he said, if a billion people put their intentions into creating plantation in baron land then this would manifest literally out of thin air or overnight!

If this is true, if this could happen, then it would indeed end world hunger....

Something I do know for sure is there exists an overwhelming body of evidence to show that the power of intention as intentional thought: Whether at the individual or group level, can affect the outcome of things. Whether it's for influencing the outcome of random events or healing intentions or stress reduction... I can give you examples of this by the bucketful, showing that intention is a force to be reckoned with.

© 2026

-A good place to investigate all this is the 'Institute of Noetic Sciences' founded in the 1970's by Apollo astronaut Edgar Mitchell focussing on collective consciousness and human transformation.

Then there's the work of Dean Radin. His riveting research would soften the most hardened sceptic, showing that thoughts can affect solid matter etc....

Then there's the groundbreaking book "The Intention Experiment" authored by Lynne McTaggart.

The book covers a wide-range of documentary experimental research showing how intentions can manifest the desired outcome.

This ranges from the power of intention:How consciousness, thoughts can affect animal, human and plant related matters.

-All of which have been quantified and proven scientifically in their outcomes. These experiments tie in with the well-covered "Laws of Attraction" as more and more attention is duly given to the quantum field and how to tap into its potential...

-These principles show how an outcome has a greater likelihood of happening when more people get together to make this focussed intention happen.

-It's synergy.

-Can the synergistic power of intention be the key to global transformation? The evidence says yes.

EXPOSING SCIENTIFIC DOGMA

by
RUPERT SHELDRAKE
(BANNED TED TALK)

Rupert Sheldrake who I consider to be one of the most significant contributors to the 'new paradigm science' makes the point in his 10 dogmas of science that for humanity to advance we need to escape the confinements of our current material-based dogmas.

This means for example embracing the idea that our consciousness is not separate to the world surrounding us but dynamically interactive.

In conclusion

The power of intention can change our lives and the world about us.

The biggest weapon we've got against the hidden powers that be and their New World Order enslavement agenda is that if we are united in a cause we can put our same thoughts and intentions together and create a world far better than the current one, where there will be true freedom, love peace and light.

14.Hantavirus 20 Questions Everybody Should be Asking Right Now!

-By Paul A. Philips

Yes, it's 'here we go again' time. The medical establishment corporate cronies are up to their shenanigans again. They are conditioning us for another one of their fake pandemics. Their owned and controlled lying duplicitous mainstream media are bombarding us with fear mongering news about a potentially deadly "rat virus," so-called outbreak.

While there have only been a small number of reported cases so far, this new 'boogeyman,' the hantavirus, like a movie franchise, could be destined to become the next so-called blockbuster pandemic, scarier, more deadly, more civilization-threatening than its predecessor, C-19. The patterns will be there, same as before.

According to ex-MP for the UK, Andrew Bridgen, Moderna have been working on a hantavirus "vaccine" for 18 months.

© 2026

Thus, the hantavirus could give rise to world-wide panic; masking, mass quarantine, lockdowns and so-called vaccines...

Remember, the mainstream media love pushing for lockdowns: This means more people will be isolated indoors. More people watching mainstream media...!

I sincerely hope that the public don't fall for it this time, then blindingly unquestioningly accept the subsequent fake vaccines as so-called treatment protocols that could seriously damage their health or kill them.

-In light of this, here are 20 questions everyone should be asking about the hantavirus, right now!

1. In retrospect of the obvious C-19 fraud, how can anybody be so ignorant, naïve and stupid enough to buy into this contrived hantavirus nonsense?

2. Did you know that like C-19, the hantavirus has never been purified, isolated and therefore proven to exist? -There are no electron microscopy images. Don't fall for the twisted computer-generated models for these viruses, cartoon images, or the bought and paid off "experts" telling you they do exist. Question everything.

3. As there is no real evidence to prove their existence is it any wonder that related court cases have been lost by the medical establishment?

4. Further, did you know that the spread of viruses has never been proven?

Yes, there is no proof for the existence of pathogens and their spread.

5. Will the public fail to understand that in retrospect, panic-driven responses; lockdowns and other related protocols have been ineffective, incurring costs that the world cannot afford, neither can you?

Remember, due to the Iran War, we are in the midst of an energy crisis and food supply shortages that could cripple the world economy alone.

6. Can you see right through the deception, that fake pandemics such as the hantavirus is spun by those in high places to advance their agendas for power, profit and political gains?

Don't fall for it. Don't have the herd mentality. It's all a question of joining the dots to work it out (if you haven't done so already).

7. In light of 6 (above), don't you think that this scam spun by those in high places must consider that we the people are merely easily frightened compliant gullible sheep who don't have any brain cells to rub together to work it out?

8. Are you aware that this lunacy started when actor Gene Hackman's wife Betsy Arakawa was said to have "died of a hantavirus infection" on the 12th of February 2025, in spite of there being no evidence to support this claim?

This emotional popularist story has been used to sow the seeds of a "deadly infection..."

9. Do you understand how the illusion of a pandemic is created through fake testing?

Every so-named virus, hantavirus included, uses the fake PCR test. There are others, but the fakery is the same for all. It goes like this:

The tests are conveniently non-specific. Therefore, an individual could be test-positive if they have (or have just got over) a cold, influenza, or other similar symptoms.

For, example, using the PCR test, a person could be falsely test-positive for the hantavirus. This serves as no evidence for the hantavirus. The positive is only due to the common cold, influenza, or other similar symptoms...

As the originator of the PCR test Cary Mullis emphatically said: "The PCR should not be used as a diagnostic test."

10. Did you know that a Pfizer whistleblower said that the hantavirus is fake?

11. Is the fact that the word "Hanta" is Hebrew for slang for fake, garbage, scam or nonsense a clue left by the medical establishment, trying to tell us it's a deception...?

12. What about "Hanta" in Hungarian, which basically means the same definition as in 11. Do you think this is mere coincidence?

13. Is the guy (in green) on the passenger cruise boat where hantavirus cases were claimed to be found a crisis actor?

This was the same individual who aggressively plugged for the C-19 "vaccine" back in the day.

-You decide.

14. Where's the documented evidence as proof for the spread of the hantavirus from rat to human?

Not the fake PCR test, but proof of the spread.

15. Are the 3 people that died on the cruise ship that no one would embark on, but eventually got taken away by rescue boats, dealt with by workers heavily clad in hazmat suits, all part of the theatre of illusion for maximum dramatic effect in the eye of the mainstream media?

-Maybe the staff in hospitals are busy in rehearsals, getting ready to perform their synchronized theatrical routines...

16. Could the 3 dead passengers have died from something else, a more plausible explanation?

17. On similar lines, was the flight attendant who had come into contact with one of the dead bodies and was in a "rough" condition, also part of the theatre of illusion, as nobody can work out how he had been affected...?

18. An article in "Japan Today" appealed to the public to stay calm, as person-to-person hantavirus transmission is very low risk. -Isn't this a good piece of advice...?

Then there's the comment by Dr. Robert Malone. He said: "The odds of being struck by lightning are 7 times greater than getting Hantavirus in the USA..."

19. What level will this nonsense scare reach before it finally dies out?

20. Will you be wearing invisible protective gear, in line with something that doesn't exist?! (Ha, ha.)

Finally

That concludes my 20 questions on the hantavirus.

Please circulate this, or other similar articles far and wide to expose the glaringly obvious deception. If one of your loved ones died through a fake vaccine, you cannot remain silent.

15. Did Paul McCartney Die in 1966 Was He Replaced? 12 Questions that Need Answering!

-By Paul A. Philips

Indeed, there has been a lot of discussion, sometimes even emotionally charged heated debate over whether or not Paul McCartney died in November 1966. It's become a widespread claim that Paul McCartney was replaced right after his alleged death.

If he was replaced, then his replacement, "imposter Paul McCartney" has managed to pull-off one of the greatest hoaxes of all-time in a conspiracy!

© 2026

-The Paul is dead (PID) theory must rank up there as one of the biggest "conspiracy theories," comparing it with the Apollo moon landings, JFK's assassination, or 9/11... cover-ups

-Is it true?

To those of you who are new to this, then the idea that Paul McCartney was replaced might sound quite ludicrous.

However, it may not be as far-fetched as you think it is when you really look into it. Consider the following quote:

"Sometimes people hold a core belief that is very strong. When they are presented with evidence that works against that belief, the new evidence cannot be accepted. It would create a feeling that is extremely uncomfortable called 'cognitive dissonance.' And because it is so important to protect the core belief, they will rationalize, ignore and even deny anything that doesn't fit in with that core belief."

-Frantz Fanon, philosopher and writer (1925-1961).

It is not the author's intention to take sides; however, this article puts forward a number of questions that need answering. Remember, whether you have dismissed the idea that Paul McCartney was replaced with scoffing condemnation, or agree that "imposter Paul McCartney" does exist, questions are the answers.

Based on much investigative research into the PID theory, here are just 12 questions that need answering.

1.It has been said that there are many clues indicating that Paul McCartney died in November 1966, as symbolized in the Beatles albums: Artwork or images symbolizing his death, backwards recordings, or subliminal messages... etc., but, while one wonders why there are so many of these clues, couldn't it be said that they prove nothing?

2.Following on from the above, couldn't these so-called clues simply be part of an elaborate hoax, a brilliant marketing ploy just to get people's attention and talking...?

3.Consistent with the above philosopher's quote, aren't there too many people allowing their emotions to get the better of them, having the emotionally driven temerity, relying on their own two eyes to make condescending judgements instead of carefully examining the physical evidence put forward by those claiming Paul McCartney died and was replaced?

© 2026

4. Anecdotal evidence may have value, but isn't it better to try and find hard evidence, which would make the PID theory either more convincing or easier to be debunked?

5. Two Italian forensic photography scientists, Carlesi and Gavazzeni, got together to disprove that Paul McCartney was replaced. Using advanced facial recognition software, instead of debunking the claim, much to their shock, they found the opposite. -They concluded pre-1966 Paul was a different person to post-1967!

Their findings got published in an October 2009 edition of WIRED Italia.

Comparing pre-66 Paul to post-67 Paul, a number of precise differences have been observed. To summarize:

(a) Post-67 Paul, has an elongated jawline and skull. This is invariant. In other words the related skull shape, angles and proportions, should have been the same as pre-66 Paul if it was the same person.

(b) Ear shape analysis, another stable feature, shows differences between pre-66 Paul and post-67 Paul.

Ear shape is accepted as definitive forensic evidence in court cases, like fingerprints. Studying the portraits (see above picture in this article. Top and bottom left pictures are pre-66 Paul, while the top and bottom right are post-67 Paul), noses between the two also look different...

These defining differences were also used to compare the other three Beatles. When comparing pre-66 and post-67 John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr, no differences were detected. It was therefore concluded that each of these individual Beatles were the same people.

-The question: How do all the nay sayers, those who don't think that pre-66 Paul McCartney wasn't replaced get around this "hard evidence?"

6. On the subject of fingerprints. There was an incident at Narita airport, Tokyo, Japan, where Paul McCartney was busted for marijuana possession. His fingerprints had already been stored in records because of a time when he was arrested in Hamburg, Germany, in 1960, for playing a prank. He set fire to a condom and was accused of attempted arson

However, the Japan fingerprints did not match those from his 1960 Hamburg days. This caused an upheaval. His detainment was extended at the Japanese airport as the authorities considered him to be an impostor. This incident was soon smoothed over by high-ranking British diplomatic authorities. Paul McCartney was then released.

Doesn't this provide more evidence that he is "impostor Paul"?

7.Pre-66 Paul lived with a German girl called Erica Hubers for a year. Erica allegedly claimed that they had a daughter named Bettina. However, the lawsuit was dropped because when the allegation came out, much later, post-67 Paul submitted his DNA which was deemed to be different to the daughter's, I.E., no paternal match. The daughter swore that post-67 Paul's DNA was different because he was an impostor.

Was he an impostor simply because he was pre-66 Paul's replacement?

8.A simple solution, to settle the PID theory once and for all would be to do comparative DNA tests between Paul and his blood brother, Mike McCartney (stage name McGear). Considering both brothers have refused to give their DNA will the claim that Paul was replaced ever be concluded?

9.Some say that Paul McCartney was cloned, but wouldn't this have too many snags, having difficulties remembering who he was, and what about the differing fingerprints and DNA...?

10.What about the photographs and videos that have suggested alleged "impostor Paul" to be wearing latex to help with his disguise?

-Have a look at this interesting video:

11.What about the number of witnesses recalling a 1966 TV announcement that a Beatle died..., but the following day it was wiped off the media face of the Earth (coverup)?

12.Will post-67 Paul; William Campbell or Billy Shears, or whoever he's called, make a deathbed confession, that he's an impostor that fooled the world?

Finally

I wrote this article because like many people, I have avidly followed the Beatles and Paul McCartney's music over the years. I want to know the truth of what's been going on with Paul McCartney and the other Beatles.

Further, I want to understand how far, deep and wide the deception runs...

This article sets out to see if you have traumatic Intelligence, a rare form of cleverness shown by strangely, exceptionally perceptive, emotionally intelligent people.

-This ability was not acquired from reading books or learnt in the classroom, or through years of frequent meditation. No, for an affected individual, traumatic intelligence came about through being subjected to a number of frequent trauma-based events over time periods, mostly during childhood.

The consequences of trauma led to this individual having a heightened nervous system trained with exceptional hyper-vigilant cognitive and emotional skills used to detect a safe environment.

Further developed skills included pattern recognition such as mood detection in other people, while exhaustively over-analyzing. It has been said that all these qualities contribute to making sure of safe surroundings.

This may give rise to much stress, making it difficult to be at ease. Because of these uncomfortable experiences, it may cause such an individual to withdraw emotionally...

In short, research shows that trauma doesn't just psychologically wound people. No, it can rewire brains to become shaper. Be able to detect subtle signals, an ability that most people don't have.

Here are 10 signs to indicate this quite unusual form of cleverness:

1.You can walk into a room and detect things way before anybody else. For examples, in your busy internal awareness, you rapidly detect someone's emotion, mood, a micro facial expression, posture or body language...

-It's your trained pattern recognition kicking in to see if you're in a situation that's safe. A form of scanning you acquired at an early age.

2.You have a deeply attuned ability to detect people's energetic shifts. This ability has been dubbed by psychologists as hyper-empathy. When in childhood you needed this skill to decide if you were safe in the company of your parents, or other family members, or child minders.

3. While most people may buckle under pressure, you somehow are able to maintain calmness, with an exceptional ability to solve problems. Yes, you don't sink, you swim. You learned to adapt to adverse situations at an early age.

4. You are a compulsive people analyzer. Another aspect that was forged during early childhood. Those with traumatic intelligence feel that a deep understanding of people leads to a better prediction of their behavior in relation to your well-being...

5. So far, the above qualities associated with traumatic intelligence; hyper-alertness, perceptiveness, high empathic ability, excellent analytical mind..., are genuine cognitive and emotional adjustments. -A testimony to how amazingly responsive the human mind/brain is to experience.

-This leads to something even more interesting when understanding how identity is shaped through traumatic intelligence.

6. You are a highly independent person. You have the knack of self-reliance, far better than most people. You're not on the level of victim or victim consciousness. Not waiting in vain to be "rescued," when things are down, you effectively adapt to adverse situations with a number of skills.

This ability may pleasantly surprise others, but, similar to 3 (above), your resourcefulness was internalized at an early age. A time when your environment was not conducive to feeling safe and those around you weren't necessarily reliable. So you developed a confidence to take care of things all by yourself.

7. You have feelings that are more intense than others.

Music has a more intense effect on you than others. You can be viscerally affected by acts of injustice. When a stranger gives you kindness you are deeply, genuinely touched by this...

-In other words, your emotional depth is a feature of traumatic intelligence. That's because having been subjected to frequent emotionally charged events during childhood, a structure called the amygdala in your brain has become primed.

You don't just simply see the world. Attuned to a frequency, you're able "feel the world" on a level that most people are unable to experience.

8.Trust is something that you don't find easy to do. However, when you do, you trust implicitly.

You have a higher trust threshold than most people. Not because you're more cynical and resigned than the average person, but because of your "adaptive skepticism."

This means that during childhood you profoundly realized that not everyone could be trusted. So, as a calibrated response, you made a number of discerning filters. These filters allowed you to find relationships with people you found to be strong, genuine and honest.

9.Restfulness or stillness is something you don't find easy. When you try to slow things down you feel uneasy. You may think that by slowing things down you could be caught off-guard. As if by doing this renders you unsafe as you are not alert in the quietness.

The ironic thing with this is that when those having traumatic intelligence master the art of resting, mind/body stillness, it's a form of reclaiming. It has the effect of appeasement; a way of informing the brain that there are no threats.

10.You will not accept that your suffering (or other people's) is meaningless. As a consequence of your early trauma you carry with you a deeper sense of purpose in life.

According to diligent psychologist researchers Richard Tadeski and Lawrence Calhoun, their research on post-traumatic growth has led them to conclude that: "A significant number of individuals who navigate adversity emerge with a deeper philosophical sense of clarity."

Those with traumatic intelligence have a greater understanding of life, having a greater sense of learned wisdom.

Finally

That concludes the 10 signs to indicate this quite unusual form of cleverness. Well, do you have traumatic intelligence?

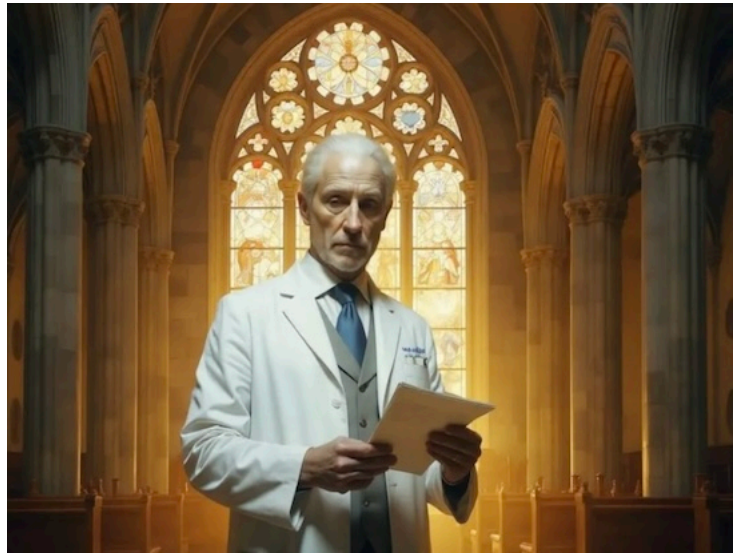

Having this rare ability is not exactly something to rejoice in or celebrate when considering the costs in early life that led you to it.

However, it has to be fully acknowledged that this ability is an example of how hardship experienced in early life has led to transformation.

17. Is support for Vaccines Nothing More Than a Religion?

-By Paul A. Philips

It's an inconvenient truth for the medical establishment knowing that their claims to vaccine safety and efficacy are riddled with obvious contradictions, irreconcilable errors and inconsistencies.

However, in spite of the fact that vaccines can maim or kill, care of their owned and controlled mainstream media, crooked health institutions, paid-off lawyers, bribed politicians, biased pseudo scientists, other corrupt self-interests..., the "safe and effective" fairytale still manages to pull the wool over the eyes of so many.

Many of these people don't want to believe that vaccines not only cause so much harm, but are also ineffective. They willfully look the other way, averting any lines of rational enquiry. -A classic state of cognitive dissonance and denial even though nothing adds up when it comes to justifying vaccines.

Fanaticism in the vaccine religion

As someone who has done their due diligent research, have you ever found that when trying to point out the flaws to these ill-informed vaccine advocates, they just don't get you. You just as well talk to the brick-wall behind them because these people are so fanatical, it's as if they are blinded by their vaccine religion. -To them, you have just spoken out in blasphemy. Their "faith" in vaccines will not be shaken...

The propaganda that they have bought into in spite of the accompanying obvious contradictions, irreconcilable errors and inconsistencies is held together by the belief that vaccines are "safe and effective."

-This unacceptable absurdity with all the related misconceptions, generating dysfunctionality, potential harm from vaccine damage through blind ignorance, needs be pointed out. It can be done at least by exposing the inconvenient truth. From this, insights or can be gained, realizations made, subsequent actions taken.

Inconvenient truths the obvious contradictions, irreconcilable errors and inconsistencies

In spite of the flaws, why does the medical establishment continue to hold on so tightly to vaccine ideology with its paradigm approaches?

Consider the following 3 reasons.

1. Not just on the group level, but also as an individual, society has been deeply engrained to measure success in terms of status and wealth. Herein lies a problem.

Over the years, the Rockefeller owned and controlled allopathic medical establishment have virtually managed to control the entire healthcare industry. -Their wealth has not only bought the industry, but also stopped competitors with alternative views, while suppressing truth in medicine.

As a result, the public have put their misplaced trust in the Rockefeller medical establishment. The public have also put their misplaced trust in doctors who pledge their allegiance to the medical establishment. Many untrustworthy doctors have made sizable gains in status and wealth through pushing vaccinations for the owned and controlled Rockefeller medical establishment.

The "safe and effective" mythology goes as far back as the beginning with Edward Jenner in the late 18th century. He was a fraud, as was the medical establishment of his day who funded him. As with other vaccines, the smallpox vaccine was not the harbinger of health it was made out to be. Hygiene and better sanitation prevented smallpox.

However, because so many people believe in the false assumption that the smallpox vaccine was "safe and effective," it has falsely given rise to vaccine prestige and primacy over the years... For more on this go HERE.

(Note: Since when has a lack of evidence for vaccine efficacy ever bothered those vaccines supporters with their religious-like fanaticism and accompanying cognitive dissonance. Yes, the emperor has no clothes).

2.The Dunning-Kruger effect

Is a form of biasing. Simply put, it's a term used to describe how low-competency individuals in a subject area or field overestimate their competence. Not aware of their incompetence, in their ignorance, they make errors.

For instance, doctors have to take in large amounts of information during their training. In order to deal with this they find shortcuts. For example, doctors learn that A causes B, but don't find time to discover how, and they don't learn the anomalies, where A doesn't cause B. Instead they just make the sweeping generalization that A causes B.

Any errors that come about from this false ignorant sweeping generalization, not knowing what's really happening, is unduly left out. However, the doctor defends this position to maintain status, while the public put blind trust in the high priest doctor's claim that A outrightly causes B.

On similar lines doctors:

*Erroneously believe that diagnosed symptoms are the root causes of illness.

*Ignore evidence that vaccines can maim and kill. However, according to researcher Andrew Brigden ex-UK MP, 90% of doctors won't take the vaccine. Do doctors know that from research vaccines have been found to increase the likelihood of disease by 3 to 10 times, rather than prevent? -The list of vaccines and the harm they bring goes on and on...

*Have to administer vaccinations otherwise they would lose their job. -Lose their status and even wealth, be branded a "heretic" if they have alternative views to the medical establishment.

3. Societies have shown that in order to function they need a unified belief system, such as a religion. In today's cultures, many religious belief systems have been replaced with science. This shift is based on the idea that science with its rational thinking would better contribute to society.

However, what hasn't been addressed is the fact that the want for a unified belief system still persists. This belief now widely persists in science, with its blind dogmatic mass following. Dogmatic irrational scientists belonging to the church of scientism think they have a monopoly on truth.

(We believe in science = We believe in vaccines. All dissenters should be silenced. Doctors have been granted the dominion over life and death. Any rises in disease linked to vaccines cannot be accepted. There has to be another explanation... -Welcome to the illogical religion of medical science!).

Covering-up evidence

Real studies have shown that vaccines cause harm. The medical establishment have found ways of covering up vaccine harm. The same goes for vaccine ineffectiveness.

It can go like this:

Child vaccine harm can be proven by comparing the vaccinated (experimental group) versus the unvaccinated (placebo group). If injuries occur to children in the vaccinated group after vaccination, compared to the unharmed placebo group, then this can be taken as evidence for vaccine harm.

However, the medical establishment won't allow vaccinated versus unvaccinated studies. They say that this cannot be allowed because it's unethical, as the placebo group would not get injected with a "life-saving" vaccine. This conveniently allows them to get away with vaccinating children with a vaccine having unproven safety data, which is far more unethical.

-This absurd and twisted logic allows the medical establishment to continually get away with vaccine harm by not allowing controlled trials, unchecked safety protocols: Just because there's an absence of evidence, that doesn't mean to say that there is an absence of proof for harm.

Unjust laws have been in place which means you cannot sue a vaccine manufacturer if a vaccine causes you serious harm.

Further, where is the evidence or proof for vaccine effectiveness in the experimental group versus the placebo controls?? Not just for children, this applies universally for all ages. How can it be claimed by “experts” that vaccines are for your health protection and well-being??

There are many other ways in which the medical establishment routinely manipulate methodologies, data and scientific protocols for their gains.

Finally

This brief overview exposes the fact that the highly profitable vaccine religion is maintained by the “safe and effective” mantra, chanted religiously in medical establishment circles. This grossly crooked and flawed paradigm is protected by prohibiting the use of genuine science that would grant proper controlled scientific experiment trials, vaccinated V’s Unvaccinated, where differences can be looked for...

Debate is also prohibited, as anyone with an alternative view to the vaccine religion would be branded a “heretic” and ousted for their non-compliance, as in the case of dissident doctors.

The medical establishment, including their regulatory agencies, is criminally derelict in their duties towards protecting the public. Evidence has been covered-up, science twisted with illogic and, in turn, the public have been stymied into believing the falsehoods.

No wonder they don’t allow debate, as the whole scenario is riddled with obvious contradictions, irreconcilable errors and inconsistencies.

However, the light at the end of this tunnel is getting brighter as trust in vaccines is further eroding.

Kudos those activists in the campaign for the truth in medicine and their vocal criticism, such as those who have had vaccines removed from the vaccination schedule.

In our awakening, there has never been a greater opportunity for the transformation of healthcare.

18. Pyramids of Giza Were They Built Using Acoustic levitation?

-By Paul A. Philips

Pyramids of Giza: Imagine an unknown technology so ancient yet so advanced it has left the modern-day world stunned, wondering what it was. How was it able to carry out what it had accomplished thousands of years ago?

It has been claimed that this ancient technology was able to lift and move extremely heavy objects such as stones sometimes well over 50 tons in weight, contributing to, for example, the construction of the Pyramids of Giza.

-That's something modern-day industrial technology; folk-lift trucks, caterpillar tractors, gantry cranes... cannot do due to the overwhelming heaviness of these stones!

© 2026

-So, what was the technology? How was it used during ancient times to move these heavy stones? After all, according to mainstream history, the indigenous people only had primitive tools to accomplish this.

A number of researchers claim that they were moved using acoustic levitation. That is, the application of sound waves; high frequency vibrations floated and transported these massive objects. -These claims are from legends passed down the generations, world-wide.

There is supporting science showing that acoustic levitation technology works. However, currently, it only involves levitating very small objects.

Consider the immense practical use this could be put to today if we knew the exact way in which the ancients used acoustic levitation!

Note: In reflection, it's worth mentioning the Arthur C. Clarke quote: "Any sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic." when considering the Pyramids of Giza as an undoubtedly amazing technological achievement that could be considered magical!

The mystery continues

The Pyramids of Giza are not the only ancient monuments that involved the cutting, movement and construction of giant stone megaliths. In different parts of the world there are other ancient sites that have even larger component stones.

Adding to the mystery, consider, for example, the stones making up the Temple of Jupiter at Baalbek, Lebanon. Some of these stones weigh 1,000 tons. That makes each stone the equivalent of several jumbo jets in weight!

Further, laid on top of each other with such amazing precision, you would be unable to insert the smaller denominations on a feeler gauge in between these stones.

And that's not all. Close to the Temple of Jupiter is Hajar al Hibla where there lies the biggest cut stone ever. It weighs an around 1200 tones. -Try shifting that one!

Puerto del Sol

Located on a plateau at an isolated area in Bolivia, some 12,000 feet above sea level, there exists a monument named Puerto del Sol (Spanish for Gateway of the Sun).

This intricately carved one-stone monument weighs about 10 tones, but what makes it even more of a mystery is that nobody can explain how it was cut from its matrix rock then transported up a mountain 4 kilometres away where it now resides.

For more on ancient advanced civilizations go HERE

More on the technology

Using the above as examples, it has been said that acoustic levitation using sound technology was used worldwide to move very large stones. It is also worth noting that it was accomplished in a time when only primitive applications were said to have existed. Having said that, no records of acoustic levitation using sound technology are available because they go back thousands of years and were lost.

However, by word of mouth, handed down the generations, legend has it that the heavy stones were levitated then moved into the desired position through striking metal rods that generated acoustic resonance. The necessary acoustic resonance was also produced through chanting in unison and using instruments such as multiple horns and drums...

-It has been claimed that this methodology and application has to be precise; correct use of vibrational frequencies, angles and distances...

Case examples demonstrating the technology through witness accounts

An example of where the secrets of sonic levitation have been handed down the generations and applied can be found with Tibetan monks. They have demonstrated sonic levitation to visitors at their remote areas.

One witness to this was a Swede, Dr. Jarl. In 1939, he was called to a Tibetan monastery to treat an ailing high Lama (Tibetan Buddhist spiritual leader). Having stayed for quite some time Dr. Jarl made some good friends with the monks there. As a result, these Tibetans led him to a high cliff. It was here that the Tibetans were working on the construction of a rock wall.

Some 250 meters away from the high cliff's edge and below lay a very large stone: Three minutes after the Tibetan Buddhists using the above-mentioned technology, its methodology and application, Dr. Jarl witnessed the stone's levitation and movement. The stone ascended from the bottom to the top of the cliff!

Thus, for every hour, the monks were able to move around half-a-dozen stones. -Have a look at the below video:

Now here's the rub. The Doctor made a couple of films capturing this event, but authorities stepped in and confiscated them on his return. In other words, the monks knowledge of advanced vibrational physics was suppressed to the world at large.

Over the years, I wonder how much nonsense suppression of this sort has been used from other similar events world-wide?? -You can't see any of this technology in action because it's been classified.

If you want to dig into this with another example of acoustic levitation evidence, check out Edward Leedskalnin at Coral Castle located in Florida, U.S.A. Between 1923-1951, as a tribute to his late nearest and dearest Agnes Skuvst, all on his own, he moved more than 1,100 tones of coral rock through the practical applications of acoustic levitation.

These rocks had been transported to Coral Castle from where he created multiple original structures to form a complex.

This amazing artwork complex; walls, buildings, gates, obelisks, sculptures... some stones weighing over 20 tones can be seen today. However, his work was done in secrecy, sometimes working late nights to avoid eye witnesses... It has been said that he obtained his knowledge from Freemasonry.

Finally

In reflection, the evidence suggests that all over the world something has been happening here that cannot be dismissed.

It may well be appropriate to conclude that the building of ancient megaliths such as the Pyramids of Giza, the Temple of Jupiter at Baalbek, Hajar al Hibla, Puerto del Sol (Gateway of the Sun) etc., and the more recent Coral Castle were achieved using the same principles of physics and leverage.

Much more research needs to be done to gain understanding of these time-honoured principles in relation to acoustic levitation.

19. Victim – Do You Play Any of These 7 Victimhood Roles?

-By Paul A. Philips

The dynamics at work that determine human behavior during relationships may often be well-concealed. However, when unveiled, a number of consistent recurring behavioral traits can be found that reflect those dynamics. That enables certain individuals having the same behavioral traits to be assigned to a group that serves as a predictor of how they will be in life.

For example, one such individual can be identified and labelled as a 'victim.' The victim group with which this individual would belong to are known to display certain recurring common overt behaviors in relation to their victimhood roles.

-In reflection of this, here are some of those patterns making up the victim. Are you a victim? Do you play any of these 7 victimhood roles?

1. Nobody understands me

-A classic victim stance. The victim frequently sees I as someone who is not understood. This lines up with the victim's attitude that he/she is powerless. Unable to communicate to others is an example of the victim's state of learned-helplessness, no control...

-The "misunderstood genius" is a classic example of victimhood sentiment.

2. Everyone's out to get me

Following on from above, the victim see things 'out there' in respects that everyone's out to get me. It's never their fault, always someone else's.

What they don't understand is this externalization is caused by their own doing. If they changed their attitude from; "life's unfair," "I guess that I'm unlucky," "people treat me badly..." to one of "life is what you make it to be," "I am responsible for my outcomes," "if I'm kind, others will treat me well..." then they would no longer be stuck in the victim role.

In other words when you change what goes on internally, your external world realigns accordingly. In this case, from victim to non-victimhood.

3. Don't take advice

Another hallmark of the victimhood role is to not take any advice. Those offering good advice to the victim or empathizing with alternative views may well find themselves getting ignored. Victims have a deep-seated resistance to being contributed to.

4. Unworthiness

Following on from above, on past-life suffering; pains, traumas, rejections, let-downs and other negative reflections, a place where victims dwell much more frequently on than non-victims, the victim will retrospectively conclude that they are unworthy.

In their victimhood, they are too cynical and resigned to see things from a different perspective to unworthiness.

5. Attention seeking

One sure-fire consistency with victimhood in its role-playing is the want to milk all the attention they can get. Much of this attention is sympathy-based: "Oh, dear, poor old you..." would be the hoped for response. -It's their way of getting the metaphorical center-stage treatment. This only serves as an attempt to get special treatment. This special treatment is something they think that they're entitled to.

6. One day...

Another consistency with the victimhood role is the idea that "one day" things are going to change. They have no real intention of ever doing anything to make this change, thinking that circumstances will happen whereby a change for the better will occur through external events.

For example, a hard-up single mother in her victimhood role thinks that she will meet a well-off man and be rescued. However, this never happens.

When someone constantly dwells on the "one day" things will change for the better, as per the "laws of attraction," all they will get is the status quo of things. -Focusing one's attention on "one day" will only attract more of the same. More "one day."

7. Stuck in their ways

Victims are in effect stuck in a repetitive loop. They may be stuck in their ways through past events. These events may have been painful, traumatic, highly embarrassing or a situation where the victim's betrayal of trust may have occurred.

Whatever the circumstance, victimhood set in as a way of "coping." Self-reinforcing habits set in. Habits such as isolation, constantly feeling sorry for one's self, relationship problems ensue so real human interaction is then kept to a minimum. In their chronic frustration, victims cannot be really happy. They avoid taking risks so as to not get hurt... -This pattern just keeps on repeating, as if there's no way out.

Finally

Whether it's with you or someone else who's the victim, the trick here is to recognize the patterns. It's not about ignoring or invalidating past events that led one to victimhood.

There are solutions, but the victim needs to realize that they are responsible for improving their situation.

To improve their situation a list of appropriate tasks could be written down as targets to accomplish. Targets written down in a logical, progressive manner as "boxes to tick" along the way, making sure that the boundaries are healthy...

For example, a specific target could be set whereby the victim could achieve something that helps regain confidence, feeling of worth.

Get support from a close relative, or a councilor, or licensed therapist, or life coach or help group. There are plenty of useful online courses, videos or books or seminars. - Whatever it takes to take back the control of life.

Remember, it all starts with the realization that something needs to be done.

20. Why Wasn't I Taught These 8 Things At school?!

-By Paul A. Philips

To many, it may not be surprising that success in school doesn't necessary predict a successful person later on in life. A number of successful people like to crow on about the fact that although they are successful in life they weren't that good in school.

Further, many people, when sharing some of their most treasured life-learning insights for success and prosperity... rarely tell us that they had learnt them from schooldays.

Have you ever wondered why?

It has been said that, to a certain extent, schooling often has a somewhat blinkered approach to teaching and learning. In effect, the education system, heavily sponsored by corporate self-interests, clones pupils or young people to fit into boxes or categories for related jobs.

This education system sausage machine cloning may leave its educated individuals devoid of any real critical thinking or creativity. -It will take much effort outside of the education curriculum to acquire these qualities for handling life effectively!

© 2026

-In light of this, here are 8 things I wasn't taught at school.

1. The greatest investment anyone can ever make is in their health

Investment gurus have repeatedly told us that some of the best investments you can currently make to inflate your portfolio are cryptocurrencies, alt coins, precious metals such as gold, 'Big Tech' stocks, and not without reason.

However, I say the best investment is in your health.

What good will it do you to have made significant gains from the above financial assets when you're not healthy enough to enjoy the financial freedom with the money you've made? What if you don't live long enough to see them reach maturity and wealth because you're no longer alive to reap the benefits...?

2. To simply be yourself is your greatest strength

Education system, mainstream media, political and corporate self-interests are trying 24/7 to make us into someone that we are not; a cardboard cut-out that is the same as everybody else.

-To avoid becoming a hapless victim of this system you have to think, act, feel and be yourself. Being yourself is your greatest strength.

3. Communication is the key to life-workability

I wasn't taught in school that effective communication underpins success in life. Successful relationships, inspiring or influencing others, completing outstanding projects and other great achievements are all brought together through and in the area of effective communication.

-How good are you at speaking and listening...?

4. Applied philosophy and its effectiveness

Many people, as they have never been taught any different, think that philosophy is merely something that is discussed with ideas about life that are merely theoretical: 'Thinkers' having warm fireside chats about the birds and the bees... etc.

That's okay, but it doesn't have to be like this.

What's missing for so many is to get engaged in 'applied philosophy.' -To put together ideas, ways of seeing things... for practical application in life.

Applied philosophy is a highly underrated and unrealized approach.

5. The importance of loving your own self

The flow of love for all things starts with loving your own self. How can you ever embrace everything for your true self-expression and empowerment when you can't even start at the beginning of the flow of love; loving your own self.

Love yourself unconditionally.

6. The greatest obstacle you need to overcome in life is your past

In school, no one ever taught me about how my past can have a controlling effect on me if I don't control it.

Being unadventurous, avoiding the risk, not getting creative, fear of hurtful consequences, overwhelming anxiety for example in trying new things... these are some of the conscious or unconscious operatives that stem from the effects of getting run by your past.

The solution is to courageously confront your past. Look carefully into how your past is driving you and what needs to be done to prevent these controlling mechanisms. -This alone is subject for another article, which I may cover some other time..

The point to get is that life exists in the 'here and now.' You can only live in the 'here and now' when you have learned how to control your past and not be the effect of it.

If you could free up the energy from your past that has been holding you back, think how much more dynamic you could be when it gets transferred to living life as a presence!

In short, life is something to be lived and fully experienced.

7. The effectiveness of real commitment

© 2026

As the saying goes, extraordinary achievements come from extraordinary commitments.

-I never had this instilled into me make at school. I only got the real realization of how commitment was the key to my achievements much later in life.

When living life as an enquiry you have to keep asking yourself: "how committed am I to my projects, tasks or targets for achievement?" Sometimes it may require you to make "unreasonable demands" on yourself...

8. Everything shows up in your life as a consequence of where you are consciously at

Want to change the world about you? Want to create a different reality to the one you're currently experiencing? Then change your consciousness.

This is consistent with the "laws of attraction." It's also consistent with 'quantum jumping,' where you are able to enter a different timeline to the one you're currently on: Changing your consciousness for as specific outcome means altering the way you think, act and feel. -Not an easy task for many as there are deeply ingrained attitudes, thought patterns and emotional behaviors needed to be dealt with and radically changed.

Coherence is key to inventing the new you for these intended outcomes to manifest.

In short, it's based on having the innate courage to change yourself from staying a victim to becoming a victor.

Finally

That concludes my 8 things on what I wasn't taught in school.

Yes, I realize that there are many other things. For example, I know that there have been books written on the many financial aspects in relation to this subject alone that authors make us aware of...
